Bus Driving Mini-Course Braved

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Get a good grip on the wheel. Obey traffic laws. Use the mirrors. Apply the brakes gently. Be courteous. And watch out for "all kind of nuts behind the wheel."

Right, I was thinking. There's a nut behind the wheel of good ol' bus No. 37 — and it was me.

With all sorts of driving tips pounded into my head in a mini-briefing from city Personnel Technician Charlie Calcaterra, I checked out the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) bus. And the course.

It didn't look so tough. A 35-foot long bus and oodles of room to maneuver it in, as I prepared to take a "crash" (no pun intended) course on bus driving.

The wide open field, dubbed the torture test by those who know, was strewn with rubber, uncrushable cones. With some imagination, I could tell the cones outlined an imaginary residential street, littered with parked cars and pedestrians.

Trainees Practice

All would-be LTS bus operators are paced through the obstacle course, located at Lincoln Air Park West, and supervised by Calcaterra.

After Calcaterra pointed out the coach's various gages, levers and pipe organ like pedals (one for go and one for stop), the city kid who has never driven even a pick-up truck, took the wheel.

It was quite a shock.

As I gazed through the rear view mirror, I suddenly realized I was going to have to not only get the front end of the bus around corners, but the back part, too.

Calcaterra broke into a devilish smile as he said my first test would be to drive through the simulated street, lined with parked cars.

1-Foot Clearance

"If you do it right, you'll clear about a foot on each side of the bus," he said.

With my right foot firmly on the gas pedal, I gingerly pressed the accelerator and we were off — at a smashing two miles an hour.

I was doing just great until he told me to hang a left. And my trouble began. It was the wheel.

The bus is not equipped with power steering and as I rapidly realized, it was going to take more muscles than I had to make those sharp turns.

After some practice putting around the field, I could take a sharp right turn like a rank amateur, squishing several cones and wiping out imaginary pedestrians and street signs in the process.

Another trick is pulling up to an imaginary curb to pick up a passenger — a real one in the form of a Star photographer who bravely climbed on board yelling, "Watch out for my car."

One of the cardinal rules of bus driving, Calcaterra explained, is giving passengers "a safe, smooth and comfortable ride." That includes a smooth, safe, stop.

One of my gentle stops would, he said as he picked himself up out of the aisle, have wrapped a little old lady around the fare box.

Keeping an even temper. Calcaterra overlooked my tendency to play with the door lever. (One thing I didn't do was squish my instructor in the front door.)

Many Controls

It wasn't easy to control the wheel, coordinate driving with the numerous, allegedly helpful mirrors and become accustomed to sitting five feet ahead of the front wheels. The sensation must be similar if you tried driving your auto while perched on the hood.

Calcaterra said most trainees overcome these problems after a full day on the course and after getting on-the-job training with veteran drivers. LTS now has five people in training, including three women.

After 45 minutes I brought No. 37 to a "gentle" halt.

My "how'd I do?" question elicited a diplomatic reply — "Not too bad," Calcaterra answered.

I debarked hot, tired, with several blisters on my hands and a new appreciation for the professionals who glide those 35-foot monsters in and out of traffic with such apparent ease.

County Board OKs Meyer's Real Estate Equalization Plan

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Equity is the game and apparently Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer is going to be given the chance to play it his way.

Lancaster County Commissioners told The Star they were reluctantly approving the $80,000 budget item requested by Meyer to equalize real estate values in the county because they are "anxious to equalization."

The tentative decision climaxes a year-long battle between the board and Meyer over the method he proposes to use to update the mandatory reappraisal of Lancaster County which was completed in 1970.

Last year the board deleted $70,000 from Meyer's requested budget because it disagreed with the method he proposed. As a result no progress has been made toward updating the reappraisal during the last year.

Commissioner Jan Gauger, who strongly opposed Meyer's plan to study sales-assessment, said she was still opposed but doesn't feel the county board has a choice.

"I am anxious for equalization and concerned about the current situation," she said, noting that she voted against approving the $80,000.

However, she said she felt that if Meyer weren't given the chance to try his method, another year would pass with nothing being done, since he was not willing to go along with the tax commissioner's recommendation.

After the board deleted the request from last year's budget, they requested a recommendation for the county from the State Tax Commissioner. He suggested the county conduct a complete reappraisal of real estate by using county forces and not an outside appraisal firm.

County Board Chairman Robert Colin said he didn't know where this would put Lancaster County with getting the tax commissioner's approval, since that office has contended the county is not ready to utilize Meyer's plan and has indicated that it will give the county no assistance if it goes that route.

Both he and Mrs. Gauger said they felt that the county should have an evaluation at the end of the fiscal year to see what the $80,000 has done toward achieving equity between properties.

Veteran Commissioner Kenneth Bourne said he feels the county should let Meyer "go ahead and try his system and see if he can get the county equalized as soon as possible."

Many appeals are still pending in Lancaster District Court by property owners who complained to the county board, sitting as a board of equalization, that their property values were out of line with those of comparable properties.

The state tax commissioner contended last spring that the county by use of added staff in the assessor's office could be reappraised for about $4 to $5 per parcel over a two to three year period.

However, Meyer has contended that such an undertaking cannot be done for that amount and estimates that a reappraisal would cost between $12 and $15 a parcel.

He told the board last week that if the county refuses to update as he proposes he feels that the nearly $500,000 spent by the county for a complete reappraisal four years ago will be lost.

He said equity can be achieved by his proposal which includes rechecking about 25% of the properties which he feels are out of line due to inflationary factors and the vast amount of remodeling which is taking place.

Once equity is achieved, Meyer says, then values can be adjusted and kept current.

Mrs. Gauger said she questions that only 25% of the properties in the county are out of line as suggested by Meyer.

Colin said he cannot understand why Meyer refused the recommendation of the tax commissioner.

He said his information was that the state has already begun assisting Sarpy County in a reappraisal which is estimated to cost about $7 per parcel due to rising costs.

He and Mrs. Gauger said at this rate, such a plan would cost Lancaster County only $560,000 over a three-year period.

U.N. Role Altered . . . In Cyprus Cease-Fire Efforts

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A cease-fire commission flew over Cyprus battle zones Sunday in an attempt to establish a firm cease-fire line separating Turkish and Greek Cypriot forces.

The commission included Greek, Turkish, British and United Nations officers. But after the flight, a spokesman for the British High Commission in Cyprus said the role of the United Nations in carrying out the Cyprus cease-fire agreements had been downgraded to "observer status."

The spokesman said he would henceforth act as the "spokesman for the tripartite talks." During the past three days, the work on setting cease-fire lines was carried out by all four parties, and announcements to reporters were made by the official U.N. peace force spokesman, Rudolf Stajduhar.

Asked about the apparent change in roles, Stajduhar replied: "No comment."

There was no immediate indication of why the U.N. role might have been downgraded. But there has been considerable uncertainty over what should be the exact function of the 3,750-man U.N. force on the island.

A U.N. spokesman told reporters Sunday that "we are now having difficulties with the freedom of movement of the United Nations forces in areas controlled by the Turkish armed forces."

There was no indication whether any progress was made Sunday in implementing the cease-fire. Another meeting of the parties was set for Monday morning. The decision to survey the battle lines came after two days of inconclusive talks between the opposing sides on where the line and U.N.-manned buffer zones should be placed.

Fighting on Cyprus was reported light on Sunday, with most action reported along the northern coast near Kyrenia, where sporadic shooting could still be heard. Scattered shooting continued on the "Green Line" separating the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot sections of Nicosia.

The U.N. spokesman said the six-man Finnish U.N. team at Bellapais near Kyrenia was ordered out by Turkish soldiers last Friday and the United Nations had not been informed of the fate of more than 1,500 Greek Cypriot civilians previously under U.N. protection there.

(In another part of his briefing, quoted at U.N. headquarters in New York, the spokesman said the Turks agreed to re-establish the U.N. post on the outskirts of Bellapais. But he said he understood most of the population and refugees were no longer in the village, and it was not known where they were.

(In Kyrenia, the spokesman said, Greek Cypriot men taken by the Turks from the Dome Hotel were being kept in custody by the invasion forces. A number of women and children were also removed, the spokesman said, and were taken to Nicosia where they were allowed to cross into the Greek Cypriot sector.

(The U.N. forces understand that similar events took place at the cities of Trinithi and Karmi, the spokesman added, and they have taken up these incidents with Turkish authorities and the Red Cross.)

Reporters visiting Bellapais found more than 600 women and children living in a hotel at the edge of town. None of the women complained of ill treatment from the Turkish forces, but all expressed concern about their husbands or sons, who had been taken off in trucks by the Turks.

In Ankara, Turkey, Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said his country had turned over to the International Red Cross a list of Greek Cypriot prisoners held by the Turkish forces.

On the diplomatic front, Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides flew to Athens to confer with Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis about the upcoming Geneva talks on the political future of Cyprus.

The leader of the Turkish Cypriots on the island, meanwhile, journeyed to Ankara for talks with Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit about the same topic.

Lincoln Man Dies In Two-Car Crash

A 66-year-old Lincoln man died at Lincoln General Hospital Sunday afternoon following a two-car crash at 6th & South.

Police said Ray Striker, 312 D, died of internal injuries he received when the car he was driving was in collision with a car driven by Howard Killen, 16, 1646 S. 3rd.

Killen was listed in satisfactory condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital with a concussion. A passenger in the Killen vehicle, Dorothy Barneke, 17, 936 Garfield, was listed in satisfactory condition with broken ribs and leg injuries.

Police said it appeared the Killen vehicle was

Nixon, Top Aides Meet; Speculation Is Rejected

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon conferred for five hours Sunday with his lawyer and his top two speech writers but a White House spokesman rejected speculation he was preparing a major address on impeachment.

"There will not be a speech this week," Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said following the Camp David conference.

As for the possibility of a presidential statement on impeachment, Warren said nothing is planned "that I know of."

He gave no details on the meetings between Nixon, lawyer James D. St. Clair, speech writers Patrick Buchanan and Ray Price and two other top White House aides, Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Ronald L. Ziegler.

Warren said Nixon summoned the group to the mountaintop retreat "because he wanted to confer with them."

The Washington Post, meanwhile, reported in Monday editions that it had learned from White House sources that tapes now being turned over to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica contain information potentially damaging to Nixon.

The Post, in a story by reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward, said that as a result of the material in the tapes key aides to Nixon are urging him to adopt a new defensive posture by acknowledging some degree of participation in the Watergate cover-up while stressing that he had no intention of breaking the law.

At least four of the taped conversations add new dimensions to the case against Nixon developed by the House Judiciary Committee, the Post quoted a source as saying.

As for recurring rumors that Nixon was considering resigning Warren said "No . . . nothing has changed."

Few Significant Cuts Made In Proposed County Budget

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Finding little cushion in general fund budget requests Lancaster County commissioners made few significant cuts in preparing their general fund budget recommendations for the public hearing Aug. 13.

In a day-long work session Saturday, the board cut some new programs and new equipment proposals but left most departmental requests as submitted, for a total proposed general fund budget of $6.6 million.

Due to increased costs, provisions in 1974 legislation and implementation of the new personnel plan which hiked salaries, the proposed general fund budget is up nearly $1.5 million from last year.

$6,655,317 Total

The proposed 1974-75 general fund budget, after the board made its cuts, totaled $6,655,317 as compared with $5,219,660 last year.

The board indicated that since the cash on hand in that fund was approximately the same, the increased budget would require about 2.7 mills more than last year, when the county levied 2.505 mills for the general fund.

Of the $6.6 million total, the commissioners' miscellaneous funds accounts for $1,941,256.

County's Share

The county's share of city-county functions represented the largest portions of that budget with $451,868 for building and grounds, $424,258 for the city-county health department and $135,400 for city-county zoning.

The commissioners included a $200,000 item in the real estate column to be used for possible purchase of the former Orthopedic Hospital property at 9th and South.

The board has already purchased some property on that site for construction of the new Juvenile Attention Center.

LOMR Item Opposed
Another large item in the commissioners' miscellaneous budget drew opposition from

J.C. Penney's . . .
Sweet of the week. Old Fashioned Salt Water Taffy. 67c lb. — Adv.

County Board Chairman Robert Colin who said he opposed expenditures for the new programs proposed by the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR).

The proposed $323,230 budget includes new programs in vocational rehabilitation services and additional hostels.

Colin said he was against approving new programs for LOMR when the board was cutting new programs and additional staff for other departments.

Commissioner Jan Gauger argued that the board should approve the proposed programs because the actual expenditures by the county for LOMR are minimal due to the involvement of state and federal funding.

Many Waiting

She said many people are waiting for the service which places individuals, who would otherwise be totally tax dependent, in competitive employment.

New departments included in the general fund budget are the personnel department with a proposed budget of $63,245 and the Attention Home budget with recommended expenditures of $189,561.

Due to the passage of a new law by the 1974 Legislature, the budgets for county court and district court costs jumped considerably.

The proposed District Court costs budget jumped nearly $100,000 to a proposed $241,924, while the county court budget more than doubled last year's budget to a recommended $22,168.

Jury Fees Double

Under provisions of the new law, jury fees went from $10 to $20 per day plus mileage for all jurors while witness fees rose from $6 to $20 per day.

However, the board did cut $55,000 from the Clerk of the District Court's operational budget for a new program he proposed and cut $60,000 from the sheriff's office budget for proposed new equipment.

The board said that it told Sheriff Merle Karnopp that the requested six new deputies for his staff would be approved, providing he receives a federal grant for which application is being made.

Other Set For Monday

With finalizing of other fund budgets scheduled for Monday, commissioners said they were not yet sure how much the total levy would be increased from the 8.581 mills last year.

They said they had not determined how the $1.8 million in revenue sharing would be applied as well as the $700,000 in inheritance tax funds which they plan to again transfer to the general fund to cut the tax funds necessary to raise money for the total fiscal year budget.

Listed below are the commissioners' recommended budgets for the general fund.

County Board OKs Meyer's Real Estate Equalization Plan

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Equity is the game and apparently Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer is going to be given the chance to play it his way.

Lancaster County Commissioners told The Star they were reluctantly approving the $80,000 budget item requested by Meyer to equalize real estate values in the county because they are "anxious for equalization."

The tentative decision climaxes a year-long battle between the board and Meyer over the method he proposes to use to update the mandatory reappraisal of Lancaster County which was completed in 1970.

Last year the board deleted $70,000 from Meyer's requested budget because it disagreed with the method he proposed. As a result no progress has been made toward updating the reappraisal during the last year.

Commissioner Jan Gauger, who strongly opposed Meyer's plan to study sales-assessment, said she was still opposed but doesn't feel the county board has a choice.

"I am anxious for equalization and concerned about the current situation," she said, noting that she voted against approving the $80,000.

However, she said she felt that if Meyer weren't given the chance to try his method, another year would pass with nothing being done, since he was not willing to go along with the tax commissioner's recommendation.

After the board deleted the request from last year's budget, they requested a recommendation for the county from the State Tax Commissioner. He suggested the county conduct a complete reappraisal of real estate by using county forces and not an outside appraisal firm.

County Board Chairman Robert Colin said he didn't know where this would put Lancaster County with getting the tax commissioner's approval, since that office has contended the county is not ready to utilize Meyer's plan and has indicated that it will give the county no assistance if it goes that route.

Both he and Mrs. Gauger said they felt that the county should have an evaluation at the end of the fiscal year to see what the $80,000 has done toward achieving equity between properties.

Veteran Commissioner Kenneth Bourne said he feels the county should let Meyer "go ahead and try his system and see if he can get the county equalized as soon as possible."

Many appeals are still pending in Lancaster District Court by property owners who complained to the county board, sitting as a board of equalization, that their property values were out of line with those of comparable properties.

The state tax commissioner contended last spring that the county by use of added staff in the assessor's office could be reappraised for about $4 to $5 per parcel over a two to three year period.

However, Meyer has contended that such an undertaking cannot be done for that amount and estimates that a reappraisal would cost between $12 and $15 a parcel.

He told the board last week that if the county refuses to update as he proposes he feels that the nearly $500,000 spent by the county for a complete reappraisal four years ago will be lost.

He said equity can be achieved by his proposal which includes rechecking about 25% of the properties which he feels are out of line due to inflationary factors and the vast amount of remodeling which is taking place.

Once equity is achieved, Meyer says, then values can be adjusted and kept current.

Mrs. Gauger said she questions that only 25% of the properties in the county are out of line as suggested by Meyer.

Colin said he cannot understand why Meyer refused the recommendation of the tax commissioner.

He said his information was that the state has already begun assisting Sarpy County in a reappraisal which is estimated to cost about $7 per parcel due to rising costs.

He and Mrs. Gauger said at this rate, such a plan would cost Lancaster County only $560,000 over a three-year period.

U.N. Role Altered . . . In Cyprus Cease-Fire Efforts

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A cease-fire commission flew over Cyprus battle zones Sunday in an attempt to establish a firm cease-fire line separating Turkish and Greek Cypriot forces.

The commission included Greek, Turkish, British and United Nations officers. But after the flight, a spokesman for the British High Commission in Cyprus said the role of the United Nations in carrying out the Cyprus cease-fire agreements had been downgraded to "observer status."

The spokesman said he would henceforth act as the "spokesman for the tripartite talks." During the past three days, the work on setting cease-fire lines was carried out by all four parties, and announcements to reporters were made by the official U.N. peace force spokesman, Rudolf Stajduhar.

Asked about the apparent change in roles, Stajduhar replied, "No comment."

There was no immediate indication of why the U.N. role might have been downgraded. But there has been considerable uncertainty over what should be the exact function of the 3,750-man U.N. force on the island.

A U.N. spokesman told reporters Sunday that "we are now having difficulties with the freedom of movement of the United Nations forces in areas controlled by the Turkish armed forces."

There was no indication whether any progress was made Sunday in implementing the cease-fire. Another meeting of the parties was set for Monday morning. The decision to survey the battle lines came after two days of inconclusive talks between the opposing sides on where the line and U.N.-manned buffer zones should be placed.

Fighting on Cyprus was reported light on Sunday, with most action reported along the northern coast near Kyrenia, where sporadic shooting could still be heard. Scattered shooting continued on the "Green Line" separating the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot sections of Nicosia.

The U.N. spokesman said the six-man Finnish U.N. team at Bellapais near Kyrenia was ordered out by Turkish soldiers last Friday and the United Nations had not been informed of the fate of more than 1,500 Greek Cypriot civilians previously under U.N. protection there.

In another part of his briefing, quoted at U.N. headquarters in New York, the spokesman said the Turks agreed to re-establish the U.N. post on the outskirts of Bellapais. But he said he understood most of the population and refugees were no longer in the village, and it was not known where they were.

In Kyrenia, the spokesman said, Greek Cypriot men taken by the Turks from the Dome Hotel were being kept in custody by the invasion forces. A number of women and children were also removed, the spokesman said, and were taken to Nicosia where they were allowed to cross into the Greek Cypriot sector.

(The U.N. forces understand that similar events took place at the cities of Trinithi and Karmi, the spokesman added, and they have taken up these incidents with Turkish authorities and the Red Cross.)

Reporters visiting Bellapais found more than 600 women and children living in a hotel at the edge of town. None of the women complained of ill treatment from the Turkish forces, but all expressed concern about their husbands or sons, who had been taken off in trucks by the Turks.

In Ankara, Turkey, Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said his country had turned over to the International Red Cross a list of Greek Cypriot prisoners held by the Turkish forces.

On the diplomatic front, Cyprus President Glafos Clerides flew to Athens to confer with Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis about the upcoming Geneva talks on the political future of Cyprus.

The leader of the Turkish Cypriots on the island, meanwhile, journeyed to Ankara for talks with Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit about the same topic.

Nixon, Top Aides Meet; Speculation Is Rejected

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon conferred for five hours Sunday with his lawyer and his top two speech writers but a White House spokesman rejected speculation he was preparing a major address on impeachment.

"There will not be a speech this week," Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said following the Camp David conference.

As for the possibility of a presidential statement on impeachment, Warren said nothing is planned "that I know of."

He gave no details on the meetings between Nixon, lawyer James D. St. Clair, speech writers Patrick Buchanan and Ray Price and two other top White House aides, Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Ronald L. Ziegler.

Warren said Nixon summoned the group to the mountaintop retreat "because he wanted to confer with them."

The Washington Post, meanwhile,

reported in Monday editions that it had learned from White House sources that tapes now being turned over to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica contain information potentially damaging to Nixon.

The Post, in a story by reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward, said that as a result of the material in the tapes key aides to Nixon are urging him to adopt a new defensive posture by acknowledging some degree of participation in the Watergate cover-up while stressing that he had no intention of breaking the law.

At least four of the taped conversations add new dimensions to the case against Nixon developed by the House Judiciary Committee, the Post quoted a source as saying.

As for recurring rumors that Nixon was considering resigning Warren said "No . . . nothing has changed."

The board said that it told Sheriff Merle Karnopp that the requested six new deputies for his staff would be approved, providing he receives a federal grant for which application is being made.

Other Set For Monday
With finalizing of other fund budgets scheduled for Monday, commissioners said they were not yet sure how much the total levy would be increased from the 8.581 mills last year.

They said they had not determined how the $1.8 million in revenue sharing would be applied as well as the $700,000 in inheritance tax funds which they plan to again transfer to the general fund to cut the tax funds necessary to raise money for the total fiscal year budget.

Bombing Kills 12 Passengers

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — A terrorist bomb exploded Sunday in a crowded express train as it sped through a tunnel in northern Italy, killing 12 persons and injuring another 48, including two Americans.

The blast, which occurred at 1:30 a.m. as many of the passengers were sleeping, tore the roof off the fifth car of the 17-car train and set a second car on fire.

Witnesses said many of the passengers, their clothing in flames, leaped for safety as the crippled train emerged from the 10-mile-long tunnel and coasted to the small San Benedetto Val di Sambro station a half-mile away.

'Screams Everywhere'

"There were screams everywhere in the car," said Duilio Romano, 20, a passenger in the blasted car. "The glass of the windows were all broken. . . flaming pieces of the roof were falling."

Police called the blast "an act of political terrorism" and said the time bomb apparently had been hidden in a toilet. They said it appeared to have been set to go off inside the tunnel, the longest double-track tunnel in Europe, to create maximum panic.

The train was filled with more than 1,000 passengers — most of them Italians heading for vacations in Austria, Switzerland and West Germany.

The explosion occurred about 100 yards from the mouth of the tunnel which is located between Florence and Bologna. The train was traveling from Rome to Brenner on the Austrian border.

Americans Identified

Most of the injured were taken to Maggiore Hospital in Bologna, where officials identified the two Americans as Leonard Gary Palma, 21, of Aliquippa, Pa., and John Maiorano, 29, of Wilmington, Del. Both sustained light injuries, hospital officials said.

"I was in a car talking to two young Germans when I heard this noise and an instant later saw glass flying," Maiorano said. "As we crawled into the station I heard screams. Blood dripped into my eyes. Window frames were blown in. Doors were off their hinges."

"The Germans had taken off their shoes for the night and ran barefoot across acres of broken glass," Maiorano continued. "I heard one of them shouting over and over again, 'There are people burning in there!'"

In Rome, President Giovanni Leone blamed "mad" terrorists for the attack and declared, "Our democratic state will not crumble under their blows."

Protest Strike Ordered

Trade union leaders, meanwhile, ordered an eight-hour general strike throughout Bologna province Monday to protest the attack. The union leaders issued a joint statement blaming the bombing on "cold and pitiless Fascist cynicism."

The blast was Italy's worst terrorist attack since extremists set off a bomb in a Milan bank five years ago killing 16 persons and injuring more than 100. Both right and left wing extremists have been blamed.

Seven persons died in Brescia in northern Italy two months ago when a time bomb hidden in a trash can exploded during a workers' strike rally. Police blamed the attack on right-wing extremists, but made no arrests.

Flood Crisis Worse; 100 Die Of Cholera

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — The flood crisis in Bangladesh worsened Sunday, claiming the lives of 119 more persons — most of them victims of a flood-related outbreak of cholera, officials said.

It was the 49th consecutive day of flooding in the nation. A total of 517 persons have died so far, and the flood waters have submerged 250 miles of roads.

In Sunday's flooding in the nation sandwiched in the eastern wing of India, the Maghna River rose to five feet above its danger level. The Buriganga River also swelled and inundated wide areas.

Of the 119 new deaths, 100 persons at Phulpur, in the north central district of Mymensingh, succumbed to cholera. The other 19 victims drowned in Mymensingh and Comilla to the southeast, authorities reported.

Judiciary Vote Support Varies

By The Associated Press

U.S. Rep. Trent Lott was back in Mississippi this weekend explaining to his constituents why he voted against recommending the impeachment of President Nixon. Rep. Harold Froehlich was in Wisconsin, explaining why he took the opposite stand.

Both men are Republican members of the House Judiciary Committee. They found differing amounts of support from the people they represent.

More than a dozen members of the 38-member committee visited their home districts Saturday and Sunday, many for the first time since the approval of three articles of impeachment.

Lott, a first-term congressman seeking re-election, appeared Saturday with Vice President Gerald Ford. He said that as of the weekend he had received 52 letters from Mississippi supporting his anti-impeachment position and six letters opposing it.

Lott said one man wrote and said that "while he disagreed with my conclusions, he appreciated my reasoning and would support me."

Froehlich voted for two of the three impeachment articles. He said that since the vote he received 90 letters opposing impeachment and 55 letters for it. He said, however, that in the time since Nixon fired Archibald Cox, the first special Watergate prosecutor, the mail from his traditionally Republican district has been 1,300 to 300 in favor of impeachment.

Rep. William Cohen of Maine, another Republican who supported two of the three articles, returned to his home state immediately after the first vote, making a statewide television broadcast to explain his vote. "Passions are high on both sides," Cohen said. "There is either great admiration for what I did or great contempt."

Cohen didn't plan any political meetings Saturday or Sunday. "I'm just trying to get away from it for a while," he said, adding that his weekend schedule included a fishing trip with his sons and a family reunion.

Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., R-N.J., also said he would go fishing Sunday. Sandman, who opposed the impeachment articles, said mail from his district has been about two-to-one in favor of his stand. "That doesn't mean all of those people don't want the President impeached and I'm not trying to say it does," he explained.

Thornton, who voted for all three articles, said of his constituents: "Most everybody I talked to recognized that was the way I had to cast my vote." He said some people expressed regret about the committee's actions, but added, "Most everybody agrees the most important thing is to preserve our constitutional form of government."

Latta said he was telling his constituents that there was a good possibility that Congress would pass a resolution censuring the President instead of impeaching him. Discussing his own vote against the impeachment articles, Latta said, "My mail nationally has been running in favor of not impeaching the President and of about 400 letters from my constituents, only about 75 of them disagreed with my position."

Railsback, who voted for two of the three articles, addressed a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Moline, Ill., on Friday and told the audience that the impeachment vote was "the most difficult experience of my life."

Several guests at the luncheon said during a question-and-answer period that they supported Railsback's position. "I believe that at a time like this, that people should choose between loyalty to party and loyalty to country and that's why I support you, Tom," said William H. Hewitt, the board chairman of a farm machinery company.

Nixon Urged To Step Down Temporarily

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee said Sunday that President Nixon should immediately turn over his official duties to Vice President Gerald R. Ford until the impeachment proceedings are settled.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said such a temporary move is "absolutely essential" to enable the government to draw up an effective program for fighting inflation.

Mundt Plant Bill Backed By Senators

Washington (UPI) — Nebraska's two U.S. senators have joined in co-sponsoring legislation to name the Rapid City, S.D., synthetic gas plant after retired lawmaker Karl E. Mundt.

Republicans Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis were listed among those pushing legislation sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

Percy is the co-chairman of the National Sponsoring Committee of the Karl E. Mundt Historical and Educational Foundation at Dakota State College in Madison, S.D.

Mundt, 74, retired in 1972 after serving in the House and Senate from South Dakota since 1940.

The $9.3 million gasification plant is located on a 10-acre site two miles south of Rapid City.

Hartman Flies To Turkey

Washington — The State Department has announced that Assistant Secretary of State Arthur A. Hartman has flown to Ankara on the first leg of a quick trip to assess the thinking of Turkish, Greek and Cypriot leaders on a settlement of the Cyprus problem. Hartman, who heads the State Department's Bureau of European Affairs, left Saturday night for the Turkish capital.

6% Jobless Rate Predicted

Washington — Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon suggested that the Nixon administration would continue its present economic policy of budget and monetary restraint even if the level of unemployment now at 5.3%, went above 6% — the rate that, in the past, has been considered recessionary. Simon and Kenneth Rush, the President's counselor for economic policy, in separate television appearances, each rejected forecasts that the rate will go over 6% in the coming months.

Nude Swimmers Increasing

Fair Harbor, N.Y. — Following a state court ruling last spring that nudity could not be considered lewd, nude bathers are appearing in increasing numbers on the big public beaches — Brighton Beach in Brooklyn, Jones Beach, and Fire Island, on Long Island. The number of nude bathers is minuscule compared with persons who wear bathing apparel; still, the Long Island State Park Police have issued 40 summonses for nudity, mostly to women at Jones Beach, so far this summer, compared with a few at this time last year.

Leak Had No Basis

Washington — President Nixon's former personal attorney has told the House Judiciary Committee that John D. Ehrlichman was trying to leak a story that the Democratic Party Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, was in trouble with the Internal Revenue Service weeks after Ehrlichman knew that IRS had found no basis for auditing O'Brien's tax returns.

The $9.3 million gasification plant is located on a 10-acre site two miles south of Rapid City.

At the same time, Proxmire said in a televised interview that it would be "just plain wrong" for Nixon to resign before the impeachment process has fully run its course.

Proxmire noted that Nixon in recent days has twice had to cancel meetings with his economic advisers in order to listen to White House tapes which the Supreme Court has ordered him to surrender to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"He's preoccupied with his defense, as he must be," the Wisconsin Democrat said. "And it's going to get worse and worse as the weeks go on."

Asked on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program what steps must be taken to tackle the nation's spiralling inflation rate, now up to about 12 per cent, Proxmire replied:

"No. I and by far the most important, as an absolute prerequisite, is that President Nixon temporarily step down, under the 25th Amendment... and hand over to Gerry Ford the full authority of being President of the United States. I think that's absolutely essential."

The 25th Amendment, adopted in 1967, provides for the vice president to temporarily become acting president if the President tells Congress that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office.

'A Few Had To Die,' Says Escaped Hostage

Huntsville, Tex. (AP) — "We knew all along that a few had to die in order for others to live," said Ann Fleming, only hours after she escaped safely from the Texas state prison where two other women died.

Two of the three convicts who held the three women and nine other persons hostage also died in an abortive escape attempt Saturday night. Authorities said the convicts committed suicide.

The 50-year-old Mrs. Fleming, who started work as a librarian at the prison only four weeks ago, taught her regular Sunday school class and attended services at the First Baptist Church. She said she would not return to her job.

Mrs. Fleming's husband Herman was with her Sunday. Their daughter, Frances Ann, 17, was in Nashville, Tenn., attending the funeral of Mrs. Fleming's mother, Mrs. R. L. Walker, who died July 27, three days after the ordeal at the prison began.

Church Welcomes

A church deacon said Mrs. Fleming had come "home to her people." Other members of the congregation embraced and kissed her. Tears flowed down her cheeks and she sobbed openly.

"We stand today rejoicing and weeping. It is appropriate that we do both," said the Rev. M. L. Brown.

Mrs. Fleming, her wrists still bearing bruises from long hours in handcuffs, nodded agreement. She held a much-used, copiously marked Bible.

At an impromptu news conference on the church steps, Mrs. Fleming said Fred Gomez Carrasco, leader of the gunmen and one of those who committed suicide "was always a gentleman. He couldn't have treated us better."

'No Bitterness'

She said she felt no bitterness for her captors or for the way the Texas Department of Corrections handled the siege.

But she said there was an overwhelming sadness at the death of the two women hostages — Julia Standley and Elizabeth Beseda.

"I feel they gave their lives for us," said Mrs. Fleming.

She said she plans to quit her job in the prison system. "I don't plan to go back to work," she said. "I've lost my effectiveness."

Little Hope

For 10 days, Mrs. Fleming said, the hostages believed they had little hope. They knew the prison policy was that convicts with hostages would never be permitted freedom. She said she was told that only four weeks ago when she took her job "so it was fresh in my mind."

On Saturday, Texas Department of Corrections director W. J. Estelle ordered an armored car to be provided as Carrasco had demanded.

"We thought then that they were finally giving in," said Mrs. Fleming.

Saturday night, Carrasco and his two companions, Rudy Dominguez and Ignacio Cuevas, handcuffed Mrs. Fleming and seven other hostages to the outside of a crude shield made of wood blackboards and books. Three women, Mrs. Standley, Mrs. Beseda and Novella Pollard and a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, were placed inside the shield, along with the three convicts.

Trojan Horse

"We called it the Trojan Horse," said Mrs. Fleming.

The way out of the prison library where the hostages had been held was down a winding ramp and Mrs. Fleming said the captives had to hold on to ropes on the shield to prevent it from going too fast.

As they neared the end of the ramp, authorities turned on powerful fire hoses.

"It took us completely by surprise," said Mrs. Fleming. "We really thought it was perfectly safe. We never thought the TDC would do that."

Mrs. Fleming said she was at the back of the shield and was knocked down by the 200-pound water pressure. She heard gunfire, she said, but couldn't tell where it was coming from. In a short while, officers arrived and the ordeal was over.

Only 'Smart One'

Mrs. Fleming described Carrasco as "the only smart one there." She said that during the long hours in the library the convicts talked in Spanish, translating only occasionally.

She said Carrasco never touched the women, nor permitted his companions to do so "although they would have."

The convict leader also insisted that they keep the library neat and the hostages spent many hours tidying up.

Mrs. Fleming said she was particularly impressed with the courage of the women. "The women were outstanding people," she said. "Some of the women talked about jumping them (the convicts), but were afraid that if some escaped others would be killed."

The hostages, she said, felt like "pieces in a checker game."

"We felt like it was Carrasco over here and Estelle over there and they were playing a game of checkers," she said.

FREE AT LAST... Mrs. Fleming prays.

Two Convicts' Deaths Considered Suicide

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Authorities said Sunday imprisoned gang leader Fred Gomez Carrasco and a fellow inmate committed suicide during an attempted prison break in which two hostages were killed.

A third rebel inmate who survived the gun battle was charged with capital murder in connection with the deaths of the two hostages. Authorities said the third inmate did not actually shoot the two hostages, but was charged because of his involvement.

the 11th day of an ordeal that started when Carrasco, a 34-year-old former narcotics kingpin serving a life term for assault to murder, and Dominguez and Cuevas pulled guns in the library of the Walls Unit of the Texas State Prison.

Four inmates were taken hostage, along with a group of civilians. There were 12 hostages at the time of the shootout.

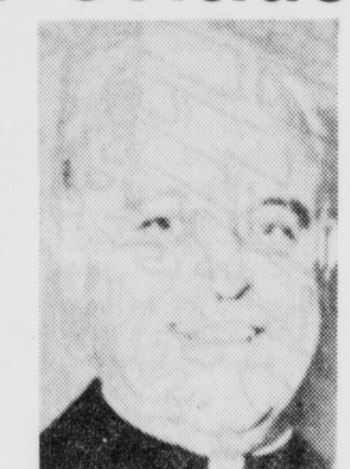

"At no time was there any thought given to the granting of any illegal freedom to any captor," said prison systems director W. J. Estelle. He described Saturday as "one of the meanest days anyone ever spent in public service."

Elizabeth Beseda AP

Judy Standley AP

Rev. Joseph O'Brien AP

Carrasco, who often said he would rather die than live in prison, placed a .357 magnum pistol to his head Saturday night during a shootout with prison guards and Texas Rangers, Justice of the Peace J.W. Beeler said.

Beeler said the other inmate, Rudy Dominguez, also committed suicide. He said the suicide rulings were preliminary and would require confirmation through an autopsy.

The third inmate, Ignacio Cuevas, was captured unharmed. Another hostage, the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, a Roman Catholic priest, was shot in the left side of the chest. Authorities said the priest told them he had been shot by Cuevas.

Beseda's body would not be sent to Houston because there was only one bullet and it had exited the body.

'Good Fortress'

Beeler described the blackboard shield as a "pretty hell of a good fortress. There were damned few (bullet) penetrations."

The four bodies fell on a ramp that led to the prison yard from the library where Carrasco, Dominguez and Cuevas held the hostages. All three convicts were armed.

Dominguez was serving a 15-year sentence for assault to murder; Cuevas was serving a 45-year sentence for murder.

Earlier Saturday, a plan had been reached that Carrasco believed would allow him freedom. Estelle said the plan called for Carrasco and his partners to leave the library with four hostages in the makeshift shield, surrounded by the other captives.

Officials Waiting

When the time came, however, prison officials, positioned behind doors and

Preliminary Rulings

Beeler said the other inmate, Rudy Dominguez, also committed suicide. He said the suicide rulings were preliminary and would require confirmation through an autopsy.

The third inmate, Ignacio Cuevas, was captured unharmed. Another hostage, the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, a Roman Catholic priest, was shot in the left side of the chest. Authorities said the priest told them he had been shot by Cuevas.

Beeler said Carrasco was lying next to the body of hostage Elizabeth Beseda, his .357 magnum pistol jammed against her. Mrs. Beseda, 47, a prison math teacher, was shot once, Julia Standley, 44, lay nearby, shot four times in the back.

"Carrasco shot Beseda and Dominguez shot Standley," Beeler said.

The shootout occurred during the end came as the three convicts, using blackboards and the hostages as a shield, tried to make their way to a waiting armored car. Carrasco and the other two inmates, along with four hostages, were inside the blackboard shield; the other eight hostages were outside.

Pollard Unharmed

Two of the hostages inside the shield were killed; Father O'Brien was wounded and the fourth, Novella Pollard, was found unharmed, handcuffed to Cuevas.

As the group made its way from the library, prison guards turned on fire hoses, driving off the hostages on the outside. Then they called on the convicts to surrender and, authorities say, were met with gunfire.

Beeler said Carrasco and Dominguez each had a bullet hole in the head. There were no other wounds, he said.

He said the bodies of Carrasco, Dominguez and Mrs. Standley were sent to Houston early Sunday for an autopsy. He said Mrs.

Estelle said, "No officer fired a shot until they had been fired upon. Several officers received fire upon their body armor and were driven back."

"The results of this, under the circumstances, were the very best, I am convinced, that we could have hoped for, considering the people that held our people hostage," Estelle said.

Carrasco had vowed to newsmen in telephone interviews that he would rather die than spend his life in prison.

"I am not the type of man who can live life behind bars," he said.

During his long negotiations with prison officials Carrasco threatened to blow up some of the hostages unless authorities complied with his demands, which included at varying times ammunition, weapons, bullet-proof clothing and passage out of the country — possibly to Cuba.

Oregon Prison Inmates Collect Funds For Slain Couple's Family

Salem, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State Penitentiary inmates have launched a fund drive for the family of a couple abducted by a convict who escaped from the prison. Never before have penitentiary inmates contributed money to compensate the victims of a crime committed by one of their own, an official said.

"It is not to be viewed as a reimbursement from prisoners, but a reimbursement from people," Oregon State Penitentiary inmate Larry Slopak explained.

Slopak, one of 1,006 inmates at the prison, heads the fund drive for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hunter, an Eugene couple abducted by Carl Cletus Bowles. Bowles escaped May 17 while on a four-hour pass. He eluded police, abducted the Hunter family and fled by car before being captured near Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Couple Slain

The bodies of the slain couple were later found near Spokane, Wash. Bowles has admitted abducting the couple but insists he left them unharmed.

"I knew Carl Bowles, and I don't feel we should all of us in here be adversely affected by the actions of one guy," Slopak says.

Slopak, 48, says he doesn't know whether Bowles killed the Eugene couple, but says that the abduction of the husband and wife certainly led to their deaths even if Bowles himself did not fire the shots.

The inmates realize that no amount of money will compensate for the deaths, Slopak says. The hope is that the fund will be viewed as a humanitarian gesture on the part of the inmates.

'Emotional' Prisoners

"There are prisoners in here who are emotional human beings," he said. "We have feelings like people on the street. We can certainly sympathize with the remaining members of the Hunter family."

"I know I personally feel a grief about what happened."

Prison Warden Hoyt Cupp has placed a $5 limit on individual contributions from inmates, but even that amount can put a dent in the savings of many prisoners.

Inmates are paid 35 cents a day for prison work. For some, it is their only source of income, and an inmate who gives $5 really gives about a month's pay.

So far, the fund totals $260. Slopak says they hope to raise $500 before sending the money to the Hunter family.

Besides inmate sentiment for the Hunter family, they also feel that Bowles' escape has hurt them all.

How can something as nice as getting new school things be such a hassle?

Kids love new school things. The problem is they don't like shopping for them.

The little kids get worn out. And trying on itchy fall clothes makes them hot and cross.

And teenagers? For a lot of mothers, that's where the arguing really begins. After all, who agrees with their teenager's taste in clothes?

At the end of all that, it's a big help just to be able to hand a clerk a BankAmericard and finish it up fast.

27 million Americans make their shopping easier with BankAmericard. For everything from tennis shoes to typewriters, it's a fast trouble free ending to the back to school hassle.

A Back Seat For Reform

Taking care "to recommend only where the need is clear," the Senate Watergate Committee under the chairmanship of Sen. Sam Ervin has drafted 35 specific legislative recommendations for preventing future abuses of government power. Born of the Watergate scandals, these recommendations along with others offered by individual Ervin panel members range from curbing the powers of the president to tightening up campaign laws to bringing federal intelligence and law enforcement agencies under closer congressional scrutiny to establishing a permanent special prosecutor.

What are the chances of these legislative remedies being enacted? Have the American people and the Congress learned enough of a lesson from the Watergate mess to want to guard against future scandals and abuses? Opinion seems to be divided.

Ironically, as Congressional Quarterly observed, the impeachment proceedings in Congress almost certainly will prevent consideration of legislation of the type recommended by the Ervin Committee, at least for this year. All but routine legislation will be stymied by the impeachment issue, it is felt. In a sense, the cures will have fallen victim to the disease — at least temporarily.

Some members of the Watergate committee, such as Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, feel confident that Watergate will not be forgotten after the impeachment issue is decided and that many of the reforms will be written into law. Others are not as confident.

Sen. Ervin, soon to retire, for one feels that President Nixon's impeachment "would make it more difficult to get the committee's recommendations enacted." The North Carolinian further suggests that "a lot of people think that Watergate is a passing aberration."

There is some foundation for the senator's view, although we think that if the President is impeached but not convicted, Congress will be more than willing to follow through with reforms relating to abuses of both the political and governmental processes. Whether or not the Congress would have the stomach to continue on with the Watergate issue after the trauma of removing Nixon from office is another question, however.

No matter what the outcome of the Nixon impeachment proceedings, however, it's hoped that Congress with all due speed will act to curtail forever by law the abuses of our systems of politics and government. Less painful to prevent the illness than to endure the operation.

Chambers On The Ballot

Sec. of State Allen Beermann counted up the signatures on the petitions last week and found there were enough valid ones to qualify Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha as a candidate for governor.

Nebraska's only black legislator and the first of his race to be a gubernatorial candidate, the "unbossed and unbought" Chambers will rightfully take his place on the ballot as an independent. He is as independent as they come, as well as being the state's most dynamic and fascinating politician.

Chambers' concerns, as narrow as they might seem at first, have broader appeal than the uninitiated might imagine.

His official entry into the race poses a potentially serious political problem for Gov. Exon. Most of the votes Chambers collects as a third candidate in November would otherwise have gone to the incumbent. At least that is the conventional view. But even if he had to rely on only one vote — his own — Chambers will make the gubernatorial race a more interesting and informative contest.

With delight and anticipation we again suggest an expanded schedule of three-way debates across the state leading up to the election.

Thus far the governor has pretty much played things close to his vest and GOP candidate Richard Marvel has been grasping at straws for issues. With Chambers as a catalyst, the campaign could turn into some sparkling, elucidative political entertainment.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

Omaha is going to leave us and join Iowa? John Hlavacek says so. And, thus, it must be so.

Personally, I've always favored statehood for Omaha if we are going to consider alternatives to our present arrangement.

Omaha, the city-state, sitting between Iowa and Nebraska, a commercial and trading center for both of us. And, with a little imagination, it could become more than that.

It could embrace wide-open gambling (as opposed to its current carefully controlled selective gambling), and take a more liberal view of topics like topless, porno and closing hours.

And, then, like Las Vegas, it could prosper from the night life activities which some view as fun, and others as sin.

And then just watch the charter flights come roaring into Eppley, filled with the fun-seekers, who would leave behind far more loot than Omaha could dream of raising through a city income tax.

Fun City, Midwest! (Oops, the Omaha daily would prefer Fun City, Midlands.)

C'mon, Mister Hlavacek, how about a little imagination?

Why, the beautiful people would storm the town. And a new industry would spring up, nourishing itself off the fruits of gambling money. Out of fear of reprisal, let us simply call it The Family.

The Family would sort of manage the gambling and entertainment business, see to it that it was operated efficiently and paid its taxes, and even relieve the police force of additional, and expensive, duties of law-enforcement. The Family would police itself — impose discipline and order, and bury its mistakes.

Performing this law-enforcement task so well, its members should be deserving of special deputy badges from the city-state's police chief-sheriff.

Ah, law and order in the city-state. And un-dreamed of prosperity. And tons of taxes. Getting interested, Mister Hlavacek?

Some changes would be required, of course.

Ak-Sar-Ben, that venerable institution for which Nebraska was named backwards, would become Ahamo.

Kiewit Plaza would become the capitol building of the city-state.

And Mayor Zorinsky would have to be called Governor, or Your Excellency, or Exalted One, or Ed.

But Omaha could adjust to its new status. So how about us, her brothers and sisters, left behind to make it on our own in Nebraska?

No more traffic congestion, concentrated pollution problems, major law-enforcement needs, mass transit, urban renewal, school segregation, simmering social and ethnic conditions to concern us?

What will we do without them? Ah, but that's unfair.

Omaha's problems are largely the result of its size. May the rest of us never grow so large.

But, Mister Hlavacek, if you're willing to reconsider and stick with us, we'll do what we can to help.

We built you a commuter road with our Interstate Highway allocation, didn't we? We're gonna help you build waste treatment plants, aren't we? We tried to make city allocation of highway user revenue a more fair proposition, remember? We're even gonna see if we can help you with your schools, right?

Together, as that TV commercial talks down to us daily, we can work it out.

Tell us your needs, and we will help. But you gotta remember that the roads aren't so hot in western Nebraska, that there are school needs elsewhere, and institutional needs, and the state had better keep control of its revenue sources if it is going to be able to meet statewide needs — including those in Omaha.

But, more than that, Mister Hlavacek, remember there is a stick with the carrot, too.

A fair allocation of the state's resources is the carrot. And the state can properly demand control over its revenue sources only if they are distributed fairly.

Now the stick. You leave us, and you leave your Husker football tickets behind. Remember that, Councilman.

'A Little Farther — We're Almost There'

JOHN HERBERS

Warren Promises 'Clear Strategy'

WASHINGTON — At the Nixon White House a favorite saying is, "Skip the details and examine the bottom line for the real meaning." The bottom line of statements emanating from the President's aides last week is that Nixon has made some serious tactical errors in his efforts to avoid impeachment, has few options left to exercise and is still searching for a new strategy.

With his long history of launching counterattacks against his enemies, it seems unrealistic to assume that Nixon will continue to sit silently and let events take their course, as he has been doing the last few days. Yet at present he is projecting the image of a helpless giant, unable to make effective use of the unlimited television time and enormous resources at his command.

The options that are open to him — an extended television appearance, personal appeals to members of Congress, a campaign to make it appear unpatriotic to impeach a president — have all been tried over and over but have failed to lift him out of the Watergate quagmire.

Even his generally acclaimed foreign trips of earlier this summer — usually a sure means for a president to gain a few points in the public opinion polls — did not help his public standing. A Gallup Poll, taken July 12-15, a few days after he returned from the Soviet Union and the summit meeting with Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist Party leader, showed that 24% of the sample approved of his performance in office, as against 63% who disapproved. A similar poll taken at the beginning of June, before Nixon's Middle Eastern tour, showed a 28% approval and 61% disapproval.

Rather than initiating a grand new strategy in the face of recent reversals on impeachment, the White House for the last few days has appeared to be preoccupied with correcting mistakes and reaching for small gains.

One mistake now privately acknowledged by White House officials was Ronald L. Ziegler's characterization of the House Judiciary Committee as a "kangaroo court" as it voted out articles of impeachment. Ziegler was presumably voicing the President's views, and other White House aides make similar statements.

One effect of that tack was to anger members of Congress who must ultimately decide whether Nixon is removed from office. In an effort to heal that wound, the President's spokesmen suddenly began talking of all members of Congress in conciliatory tones, and one presidential aide was reported to have told some congressional leaders that Ziegler had been ordered to quit talking for the time being.

At the same time, considerable effort has been spent by the President's spokesmen to correct the impression that the White House is frequently out of touch with reality. A week ago last Saturday night, in San Clemente, Calif., after the Judiciary Committee voted the first article of impeachment, Ziegler issued the following mimeographed statement:

"The President remains confident that the full House will recognize that there simply is not the evidence to support this or any other article of impeachment and will not vote to impeach. He is confident because he knows he has committed no impeachable offense."

The White House stood by this view even after the President's defenders in the House began conceding that an impeachment vote by the full House appeared certain. Finally, the President's aides backed off from the statement but had trouble explaining how they could be doing so without conceding the President's impeachment.

Nixon's spokesman, Gerald L. Warren, explained the change by saying the situation was "dynamic" and "shifting and unpredictable." Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., the White House chief of staff, was even more restrained, saying, "We are not naive," as if to explain that the White House was not once again entertaining an overly optimistic view of the President's position.

The perplexity became so pronounced that Warren said he would no longer answer questions about strategy because it would be "unfair to the President of the United States to make pronouncements about this extremely serious situation."

"Our strategy," he said, "will become clear as events unfold in maybe five days, 10 days or 20 days."

Yet the uncertainty of the White House at this point was shown by reaction to a plan, advanced by a few conservative House members, to bypass House debate and take the impeachment case directly to the Senate for trial. Patrick J. Buchanan, a special consultant to the President, speaking on the basis of conversations with those close to the President, said that the plan was being considered in the White House, and this was confirmed by other officials.

But after Nixon's supporters in Congress strongly rejected the plan as an abdication of the House's Constitutional duty, the White House reaction cooled and within 24 hours of Buchanan's statement, it was considered dead.

"It was never a brilliant idea around here," Warren said.

Having abandoned its efforts to picture the impeachment move as a purely partisan and political effort by members of the House Judiciary Committee, the White House was left with two previous strategies, which were still being pursued: To show that government business was proceeding despite the impeachment move and to portray Nixon as remaining convinced that the weight of the evidence would clear him in the end.

But neither seemed to be having much effect on the impeachment drive. There was talk of having Vice President Ford and cabinet members lobby House members in behalf of the President, but there was considerable resistance to that idea.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton told reporters that, as to lobbying "my old buddies" in the House, "I have some doubts about, do you help him or do you hurt him? I about have the conclusion that you come out minus." But he left the idea open.

Meantime, Nixon was continually pictured as being strangely serene, considering the circumstances. A high official who spent more than an hour with him last week said that Nixon was relaxed and optimistic "as if he had just stepped off the 18th green." And there was another round of denials that he would even consider the idea of resigning.

BIG John Is In BIG Trouble

JOHN CONNALLY... the poor-boy-to-millionaire syndrome...

Washington — Big John Connally indicted for obstruction of justice, illegal payoffs and perjury says he is convinced he will prove his innocence when his case comes to trial. The puzzle is that a man of Connally's wealth should have been dithering around, as the indictment charges, with $10,000 in a milk fund payoff.

Connally is a prize example of the poor - boy - to - millionaire syndrome that flourishes in the most exotic form in Texas. His father was the second butcher in the butcher shop in Floresville, his birthplace.

That syndrome in even more luxurious form was evident in the career of Lyndon Johnson. As his friend and political mentor, Johnson brought Connally to Washington to be his assistant in 1937 when the late President was a young congressman.

The young aide who was to hold a succession of high offices, including three terms as governor of Texas, got his schooling from a tough master who knew every angle of the politics of influence and pull.

Now and then during the House Judiciary Committee's debate on the articles of impeachment, potshots were taken at Johnson. Didn't he deserve impeachment as much as President Nixon? Why wasn't his presidency investigated?

This has been part of a half-submerged Republican defense line: You Democrats in the majority are out to impeach a Republican president when you know the same kind of thing has gone on in Democratic administrations.

This fosters the corrosive cynicism that all politicians are corrupt and it happens that some get caught and others don't.

In the poor - boy - to - millionaire sweepstakes, Lyndon Johnson was no slouch. He was on a public payroll all his life until he left the presidency. While in the five years in the White House, his salary was $200,000 annually with an additional $50,000. Both amounts were taxable.

Yet after his death in 1973, his estate was estimated at $35 to $40 million.

The bulk of the estate was in valuable television and radio properties and in large landholdings, some of which had been disposed of shortly before his death.

To this reporter's knowledge only one newspaper, the Wall Street Journal, did an in-depth investigation of how the President and Mrs. Johnson acquired the TV stations.

Influence and pressure marked the trail that made it impossible for "outsiders" to compete in the Johnson domain in Texas. I was at the ranch as the Wall Street Journal articles appeared and the President vented his wrath in typical Johnsonian fashion.

Power and money were the two poles of attraction for Connally and his mentor. Power meant money.

Sniffing the political winds, Connally decided to back Nixon. Connally got his reward when Nixon named him secretary of the treasury.

Secretary Connally presided over the meeting of the finance ministers of the Group of Ten that reached an agreement on the realignment of exchange rates. The President called it "the most significant monetary agreement in the history of the world," the most significant event in world financial history. The agreement lasted hardly more than a year.

What has been forgotten is that the President after Spiro Agnew's downfall first offered the vice presidency to Connally who declined because he felt that Democrats in Congress could block his confirmation. Even if he got through, it would be after a bruising fight that would seriously impair his chances for the presidential nomination.

Now this all goes glimmering for the boy from Floresville who moved into the bracket of private planes and $400 suits. It is one more trial in the long tragic procession haunting this grisly year of our disunion.

The Right To Bargain

Wilber, Neb.

We Americans are being brainwashed into believing there is nothing we can do about the high cost of the groceries we need and that we must pay what is asked, and that is that. We have no choice whatsoever.

Yet our Constitution says that all citizens have a right to bargain, and this should include the right to bargain for the groceries we wish to buy.

We tried to bargain with two certain merchants in two different stores, but we were asked to leave, so it was pay what they asked or go without.

Also, we have been asked to turn the heat down to save on gas. Now we are asked to save 15 cents on each $10 of groceries. Next it will be to send that 15 cents to the Nixon tax fund so the poor little sad-sack can keep his fancy homes heated and air-conditioned. All of us plain John Does can go to bed a little hungry but feeling great inside, knowing we have saved the king's castle.

Next King Richard will probably ask that we save on air by breathing every other minute.

Nixon's speech explaining why prices were high was an insult to this nation. He addressed us as children to whom he was explaining the reason why we have to be hungry.

What We Can Afford

Lincoln, Neb.

I wonder if the Lincoln City Council or the Downtown Advisory Committee is aware of the state of our economy. With inflation rampant and shortages abounding, is this the time to begin such as grand project as the Centrum plans? Surely the wisdom of it must be questioned by many taxpayers who of necessity are tightening their belts. The mayor has earmarked $2.1 million for the project and also asks an increase in his own salary.

This city has many elderly persons living on restricted incomes, many of whom must use the bus service. It is most convenient for these people as well as other shoppers to have the buses stopping on O Street. In cold or hot weather, it is also most helpful to have a sheltered place to wait. Although many people do not wish to believe it, the energy crisis has not ended, as facts prove otherwise. Also, does a city have the right to close or alter a federal highway? It is my understanding that O Street is still a federal highway. Have our police and traffic departments been consulted and what are their views?

Far be it from me to wish the demise of the downtown shopping area, as I like to shop downtown as do many others. Financial priorities at all levels of government — city, state and federal — must now take a hard look at tax revenue of the future and settle for what they can afford, not what they might like to afford. Most citizens have been doing this for some time.

Congress strongly rejected the plan as an abdication of the House's Constitutional duty, the White House reaction cooled and within 24 hours of Buchanan's statement, it was considered dead.

"It was never a brilliant idea around here," Warren said.

Having abandoned its efforts to picture the impeachment move as a purely partisan and political effort by members of the House Judiciary Committee, the White House was left with two previous strategies, which were still being pursued: To show that government business was proceeding despite the impeachment move and to portray Nixon as remaining convinced that the weight of the evidence would clear him in the end.

But neither seemed to be having much effect on the impeachment drive. There was talk of having Vice President Ford and cabinet members lobby House members in behalf of the President, but there was considerable resistance to that idea.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton told reporters that, as to lobbying "my old buddies" in the House, "I have some doubts about, do you help him or do you hurt him? I about have the conclusion that you come out minus." But he left the idea open.

Meantime, Nixon was continually pictured as being strangely serene, considering the circumstances. A high official who spent more than an hour with him last week said that Nixon was relaxed and optimistic "as if he had just stepped off the 18th green." And there was another round of denials that he would even consider the idea of resigning.

Poll: Majority Thinks House Should Impeach

By LOUIS HARRIS

By a 66-27% majority, the American people believe "the House of Representatives should vote to impeach President Nixon so he can be tried by the U.S. Senate." In the wake of the impeachment recommendations of the House Judiciary Committee, the number who now favor impeachment has jumped from 53 to 66%.

By 56-31%, a majority also now believe "the U.S. Senate should vote to convict President Nixon," up from a 47-34% plurality who felt that way just prior to the House Judiciary Committee's televised debate and vote.

Significantly, by 49-43%, people who voted for President in 1972 now favor an impeachment vote by the House. By a narrow 45-44%, a plurality of Republicans still oppose such action. Enrolled Republicans oppose conviction of the President by 52-31%, and Nixon 1972 voters share this same view by 50-34%. Thus, it can be concluded that President Nixon still has a hardcore of supporters coming to 31% of the public, although by all measures his backing has been badly eroded by the decisive vote to impeach by the House Judiciary Committee.

Committee to vote to impeach in turn meets with 65-29% favor among the public. Significantly, people who live in the South reacted positively to the impeachment vote by a margin of 59-35%.

The standing of the Judiciary Committee rose dramatically as a result of its impeachment deliberations. By 62-30%, a solid majority now give the committee high marks on its handling of the impeachment proceedings. Prior to the televised debate, the public gave the committee negative marks by 48-36%.

Chairman Peter Rodino of the Judiciary Committee also is now held in much higher regard than before the committee took its decisive steps in recommending impeachment. Rodino's efforts now meet with 58-22% endorsement, compared with the 38-32% negative standing for him recorded before the committee vote.

A similar reversal took place in the public's assessment of Judiciary Committee counsels John Doar and Albert Jenner. Before the televised debate and vote, the public gave them negative marks by 35-29%. Now they are rated 43-22% positive. Democratic members of the Judiciary Committee were given 46-32% negative marks before the decisive vote, but just after the event rose to 55-32% positive. Significantly, Republican members of the committee also improved their standing from a 53-24% negative to a post-impeachment proceeding standing of 43-43% rating.

A smaller majority of the people is now prepared to advocate that President Nixon be found guilty by the U.S. Senate, although the number who feel this way obviously is growing. People were asked: "From what you know or have heard, if the House of Representatives votes impeachment and President Nixon is put on trial before the U.S. Senate, do you think the U.S. Senate should vote to convict him or not?"

Nebraska will have a new veterans home at Scottsbluff, and an official said it is hoped at least some of it will be in operation by the end of the year.

In June, the state bid $310,000 on the two dormitory units on the campus of the defunct Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff. It was the only bid in the bondholder sale and has been approved by the courts.

Dr. Jack Anderson, state institutions director, said in an interview he's already in the process of talking with architects on remodeling.

"We're going to move on this as fast as we can," Anderson said.

Program Statement, Plans... The first step is drawing up a program statement and developing plans for legislative review.

The idea, Anderson said, is to get a 20-veteran unit ready and open as soon as possible so federal matching money can be made available to complete the job.

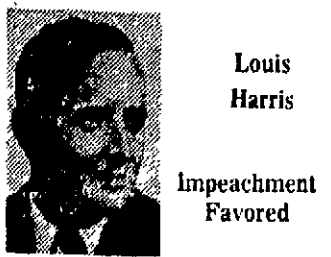

The Skinner Dormitory Complex will be remodeled first, to be followed by the Vanguard unit, the director said.

Ultimately, the Skinner unit will house 80 veterans, which Anderson said tied with expansion.

The cross-section was asked: "The House Judiciary Committee has voted to impeach President Nixon. Do you favor or oppose the action of the House Judiciary Committee in recommending the impeachment of President Nixon?"

Forecast For Monday

Aries persons who "stay with me" include Gloria Swanson, Harry Houdini, Bette Davis, Joan Crawford. There are others, but these seem to typify this first of the zodiacal signs, the leader, the innovator, the independence, the sometimes arrogance, the definite mark, as opposed to chalky, wishy-washy. Gloria Swanson is, as far as I am concerned, most certainly the world's most beautiful grandmother — and Aries from head to toe. Houdini was the great originator, the master escape artist, a friend of astrology. Joan Crawford is the daring of Aries all the way and never to be equaled, only imitated. Bette Davis is the charm and intelligently creative and a friend of astrology. Joan Crawford is the daring of Aries all the way and never to be equaled, only imitated. ARIES (March 21-April 19). You have strength on your side, despite flax from associates, family acquaintances. Means stick with principles. You are going to be promoted, rewarded, loved. Meantime, you also will undergo tests, pressures and frustrations. But realize you are on brink of success!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Some of your hopes, desires are closer to fulfillment than might be apparent. Those who harass you are jealous, puzzled and waiting for signals. Your task now is to finish, to plan, to realize potential and to stand above and beyond the petty slings and arrows.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). Contracts should be examined with proverbial fine-tooth comb. Illusion rather than deception tends to rule. Means there are misconceptions rather than mistakes. The faults are subtle rather than direct. Do some examining — ask questions. Turn on charm. Get more information!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Be willing to test, try, experiment. What appears to be a lost cause could turn out to be a profitable venture. Know it and refuse to be discouraged. Some around you want you to be dejected. Instead, stand tall. You are about to be vindicated!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). What seems a "sure thing" may be the opposite. Don't be caught off guard. Protect your interests. Check legal aspects. Be meticulous where details are concerned. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio and Taurus persons are in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). You are intrigued with mysteries. You want answers and the more elusive they are — the more fascination they hold for you.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

Rome — There is a sidewalk cafe in the Piazza del Pantheon. And in the evening, you can watch the people come down and feed the cats.

"They have favorites," said the waiter. We sat at the sidewalk table drinking foamy cappuccinos. A coffee topped with whipped milk and sprinkled with bitter chocolate.

"They know the cats. In Rome, we do not keep cats at home. These cats of the ruins are our household cats. They belong to all Rome," said the waiter.

"They watch over the cats. Many people give them special diets. They bring little specialties. A piece of liver. A taste of veal. They treat them as you treat cats who live with you."

We had dinner across the Tiber. In Trastevere. It is the working-man's section of Rome. The walls hang over narrow cobbled streets. In the warm evenings, the people of Trastevere bring their dinners down to little wine shops. The rent of an outdoor table is only a flask of red wine from the Tuscan hills.

The Tiber has always divided the Trastevere people from those across the river. And in early days, the two sides threw rocks at each other.

A friend of mine told me: "The Trasteverini think of themselves as the true Romans. It is something like the Left Bank of Paris."

After dinner we went over to the Piazza del Pantheon to call on the cats of Rome. There are thousands of homeless cats in Rome.

They live in the ruins of the Forum. They prance across the moonlit floor of the Colosseum. They walk through the pillars of the Pantheon built by Marcus Agrippa to celebrate his sea victory over Anthony and Cleopatra.

They wander through Piazza Vittorio, in the Roman ruins where Queen Christina of Sweden inscribed a formula for making gold. (Pretty nice of her, I say.)

"Nobody knows," said the waiter, "when the cats came to Rome. Some say it was in the days when Egypt was part of the Empire. The Egyptians worshipped cats. Perhaps there were cat gods in the Pantheon. "The ancient Romans were relaxed about the gods. The Pantheon housed many gods beside the Roman dieties."

During the war when food was scarce in Rome, the cats disappeared.

"When you saw rabbit on the menu," said the waiter, "you said, 'ah ha, another cat.'"

Now the cats are back. There is a wide, deep trench around the Pantheon. Rome has risen on the debris of years. The city of the Caesars is 10 to 20 feet below the level of Rome today.

The trench — the original level — was full of cats.

There were cats with kittens nested in niches in the wall.

A few cats sat in the shadows of the pillars with moonlight flooding all around. They sat silently with feline grace.

Poll: Majority Thinks House Should Impeach

By LOUIS HARRIS

By a 66-27% majority, the American people believe "the House of Representatives should vote to impeach President Nixon so he can be tried by the U.S. Senate." In the wake of the impeachment recommendations of the House Judiciary Committee, the number who now favor impeachment has jumped from 53 to 66%.

By 56-31%, a majority also now believe "the U.S. Senate should vote to convict President Nixon," up from a 47-34% plurality who felt that way just prior to the House Judiciary Committee's televised debate and vote.

Significantly, by 49-43%, people who voted for President in 1972 now favor an impeachment vote by the House. By a narrow 45-44%, a plurality of Republicans still oppose such action. Enrolled Republicans oppose conviction of the President by 52-31%, and Nixon 1972 voters share this same view by 50-34%. Thus, it can be concluded that President Nixon still has a hardcore of supporters coming to 31% of the public, although by all measures his backing has been badly eroded by the decisive vote to impeach by the House Judiciary Committee.

Committee to vote to impeach in turn meets with 65-29% favor among the public. Significantly, people who live in the South reacted positively to the impeachment vote by a margin of 59-35%.

The standing of the Judiciary Committee rose dramatically as a result of its impeachment deliberations. By 62-30%, a solid majority now give the committee high marks on its handling of the impeachment proceedings. Prior to the televised debate, the public gave the committee negative marks by 48-36%.

Chairman Peter Rodino of the Judiciary Committee also is now held in much higher regard than before the committee took its decisive steps in recommending impeachment. Rodino's efforts now meet with 58-22% endorsement, compared with the 38-32% negative standing for him recorded before the committee vote.

A similar reversal took place in the public's assessment of Judiciary Committee counsels John Doar and Albert Jenner. Before the televised debate and vote, the public gave them negative marks by 35-29%. Now they are rated 43-22% positive. Democratic members of the Judiciary Committee were given 46-32% negative marks before the decisive vote, but just after the event rose to 55-32% positive. Significantly, Republican members of the committee also improved their standing from a 53-24% negative to a post-impeachment proceeding standing of 43-43% rating.

The interviewing was finished last Friday and each answer to each question was then telephoned into Harris headquarters, computerized overnight in order to be reported in Sunday's newspapers.

The cross-section was asked: "The House Judiciary Committee has voted to impeach President Nixon. Do you favor or oppose the action of the House Judiciary Committee in recommending the impeachment of President Nixon?"

House Judiciary Committee Action

Recommend impeachment of Nixon

Total Public	66%	27%	46%
Republicans	52%	31%	46%
Voted Nixon '72	45%	44%	46%

Support for the committee's recommendation to impeach closely paralleled the public's view that now the entire House should vote to impeach the President and have him put on trial by the U.S. Senate. People were asked: "The House of Representatives can only vote to impeach the President — that is, have him put on trial. Then the U.S. Senate would hold a trial, and either acquit or convict him. All in all, from what you know or have read, do you think the House of Representatives should vote to impeach President Nixon so he can be tried by the U.S. Senate, or would you oppose such a step by the House?"

House Vote To Impeach President Nixon

August	66%	53%
Should vote to impeach him	66%	53%
Should not vote to impeach	27%	34%
Not sure	7%	13%

A smaller majority of the people is now prepared to advocate that President Nixon be found guilty by the U.S. Senate, although the number who feel this way obviously is growing. People were asked: "From what you know or have heard, if the House of Representatives votes impeachment and President Nixon is put on trial before the U.S. Senate, do you think the U.S. Senate should vote to convict him or not?"

U.S. Senate Vote To Convict President Nixon

August	56%	47%
Should vote to convict	56%	47%
Should not	31%	34%
Not sure	13%	19%

Although a substantial majority now favor conviction of the President, it must be pointed out that the margin has not yet reached the 2-to-1 margin required in the U.S. Senate for conviction.

However, a plurality of the country now feels that in the end, Mr. Nixon will be found guilty and impeached and removed from office. "When all the investigations are over, do you think President Nixon will be found guilty and impeached and removed from office or don't you think that will happen?"

Will Nixon Be Impeached And Removed From Office?

August	47%	27%	29%
Will be found guilty	47%	27%	29%
Will not happen	40%	55%	53%
Not sure	13%	18%	18%

The shift from 55% who felt before the Judiciary Committee took its decisive vote that Nixon would not be found guilty and removed from office to a 47-40 percent plurality who now feel he will, means the American people have moved from a state of mind that impeachment and removal was unthinkable to an expectation that it will indeed happen.

Credit for bringing about this dramatic change in public expectations and attitudes can be traced directly to the sharp rise in public respect for the behavior of the House Judiciary Committee and its chairman, Rep. Peter Rodino, in the way the impeachment proceedings were handled. The public was asked: "How would you rate the job done by (read list) on the impeachment proceedings against President Nixon — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

Rating Of Judiciary Committee and Key Individuals On Impeachment

House Judiciary Committee	67%	30%	8%
August	67%	30%	8%
Chairman Peter Rodino	58%	22%	20%
August	58%	22%	20%
Democratic Members Of Committee	55%	31%	14%
August	55%	31%	14%
John Doar & Albert Jenner, Committee Counsels	43%	27%	25%
August	43%	27%	25%
Republican Committee Members	43%	41%	14%
August	43%	41%	14%
James St. Clair, Nixon's Lawyer	45%	35%	20%
August	45%	35%	20%
Leon Jaworski, Special Prosecutor	39%	39%	22%
August	39%	39%	22%
Prosecutor	61%	21%	19%
August	61%	21%	19%

In the increased public respect for just about everyone connected with the impeachment proceedings debate, vote, and prosecution, it is evident now that in taking action on Watergate and whether President Nixon should be removed from office, Congress is not only measurably raising public respect for its performance, but is going a long way toward restoring public confidence in the ability of the democratic system to work.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

Rome — There is a sidewalk cafe in the Piazza del Pantheon. And in the evening, you can watch the people come down and feed the cats.

"They have favorites," said the waiter. We sat at the sidewalk table drinking foamy cappuccinos. A coffee topped with whipped milk and sprinkled with bitter chocolate.

"They know the cats. In Rome, we do not keep cats at home. These cats of the ruins are our household cats. They belong to all Rome," said the waiter.

"They watch over the cats. Many people give them special diets. They bring little specialties. A piece of liver. A taste of veal. They treat them as you treat cats who live with you."

We had dinner across the Tiber. In Trastevere. It is the working-man's section of Rome. The walls hang over narrow cobbled streets. In the warm evenings, the people of Trastevere bring their dinners down to little wine shops. The rent of an outdoor table is only a flask of red wine from the Tuscan hills.

The Tiber has always divided the Trastevere people from those across the river. And in early days, the two sides threw rocks at each other.

A friend of mine told me: "The Trasteverini think of themselves as the true Romans. It is something like the Left Bank of Paris."

After dinner we went over to the Piazza del Pantheon to call on the cats of Rome. There are thousands of homeless cats in Rome.

They live in the ruins of the Forum. They prance across the moonlit floor of the Colosseum. They walk through the pillars of the Pantheon built by Marcus Agrippa to celebrate his sea victory over Anthony and Cleopatra.

They wander through Piazza Vittorio, in the Roman ruins where Queen Christina of Sweden inscribed a formula for making gold. (Pretty nice of her, I say.)

"Nobody knows," said the waiter, "when the cats came to Rome. Some say it was in the days when Egypt was part of the Empire. The Egyptians worshiped cats. Perhaps there were cat gods in the Pantheon. The ancient Romans were relaxed about the gods. The Pantheon housed many gods beside the Roman dieties."

During the war when food was scarce in Rome, the cats disappeared.

"When you saw rabbit on the menu," said the waiter, "you said, 'ah ha, another cat.'"

Now the cats are back. There is a wide, deep trench around the Pantheon. Rome has risen on the debris of years. The city of the Caesars is 10 to 20 feet below the level of Rome today.

The trench — the original level — was full of cats.

There were cats with kittens nested in niches in the wall.

A few cats sat in the shadows of the pillars with moonlight flooding all around. They sat silently with feline grace.

"In Rome," said the waiter, "there is the King of the Cats."

(By this time he was having a little Strega with me. The fiery yellow liquor — Strega means witch — is excellent for reporting. I think I should carry a cask of it around my neck like a St. Bernard.)

"The King of the Cats lives near the Farnese Palace. Where the Holy Office of the Inquisition burned heretics. Some say the King of the Cats is Satan himself.

"He is served by seven pure white cats. And all cats of Rome pay tribute to him. That is why the cats live in the ruins and have no masters."

"They say when the Eternal City falls, each cat will find a master and mistress. And the King of the Cats will direct them how to rule Rome."

Opening Of Vets Home Rushed

By United Press International

Nebraska will have a new veterans home at Scottsbluff, and an official said it is hoped at least some of it will be in operation by the end of the year.

In June, the state bid $310,000 on the two dormitory units on the campus of the defunct Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff. It was the only bid in the bondholder sale and has been approved by the courts.

Dr. Jack Anderson, state institutions director, said in an interview he's already in the process of talking with architects on remodeling.

"We're going to move on this as fast as we can," Anderson said.

Program Statement, Plans, . . . The first step is drawing up a program statement and developing plans for legislative review.

The idea, Anderson said, is to get a 20-veteran unit ready and open as soon as possible so federal matching money can be made available to complete the job.

The Skinner Dormitory Complex will be remodeled first, to be followed by the Vanguard unit, the director said.

Ultimately, the Skinner unit will house 80 veterans, which Anderson said tied with expansion of the Norfolk Veterans Home would take care of the next year's needs.

Retired Admiral, 91, Oldest To Scale Fuji

Tokyo (AP) — Retired Admiral Toyochi Wamami, 91, has become the oldest person ever to have climbed 12,000-foot Mt. Fuji, officials here said.

Wamami made the successful ascent after an overnight stay along the way.

Third In G.I.

The state has a third veterans home at Grand Island.

All preliminary work, Anderson said, should be finished in about a month. But he said so far architects aren't optimistic about the timetable for the rest because of problems with materials.

The Skinner unit will be set up to handle couples, the director said. Each couple will have two rooms and bath.

That could be done, he said, without extensive remodeling because of the way the building now stands. Each unit, he said, would have both an outside and inside entrance.

'Home-Like'

"I think these units are going to be very attractive and home-

Communists Overrun 10 Quang Ngai Posts

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — Communist troops overrun 10 government positions and heavily shelled others in Quang Ngai province 75 miles south of here, field reports said Sunday.

The reports said about half of the more than 800 troops manning the outposts made it back to government lines. Others were unaccounted for.

The attacks were part of a continuing drive by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces against government outposts along the coast south of Da Nang, the country's second largest city.

In Saigon, the Viet Cong delegation to the two-party Joint Military Commission, replying to a protest note from the Saigon delegation, said the attacks were justified because the government was using the area to launch pacification operations in violation of the cease-fire.

Since the drive began July 17, the Communists have seized more than a score of government outposts and villages with the heaviest fighting around district towns 20 to 30 miles south of Da Nang.

There are no firm casualty reports from the fighting, but both Communist and government losses are believed to be high. Each side has committed a division of 10,000 troops to the area south of Da Nang, officials said.

The South Vietnamese command in Saigon said 70 Communist troops and 10 government soldiers were killed in a battle near Duc Duc, one of the district towns under siege.

Drive Extended

The attacks in Quang Ngai, another district town south of Da Nang, indicated that the Communist drive was being extended southward.

Officials said an estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese troops from an independent brigade moved into the province, began shelling at least three district towns, and attacked the five government outposts.

One shelling attack killed 12 government soldiers and six civilians in the province's Ngai Hanh district town, government officials said.

In Cambodia, rebel forces overran five small government outposts and abducted several hundred villagers only three to five miles from the capital of Phnom Penh, according to field reports.

The reports said at least 40 militiamen from a 200-man force were missing, and that 15 villagers were slain after they resisted. The villages lie in the swampy area adjacent to the east bank of the Mekong river.

Field reports said that the Khmer Rouge attacked the villages under a cover of heavy, cold rain late Saturday night.

Michigan Man Charged In Exxon Extortion Try

Cleveland (UPI) — The FBI announced Sunday the arrest of a Michigan machine operator charged with attempting to extort $2 million from Exxon Chemical Co., U.S.A.

Budimir Damjanovic, 27, Utica, Mich., was picked up in a heavily wooded area near Rochester, Mich., as he tried to collect the money from a FBI agent posing as an Exxon courier.

Damjanovic was held in the Lenawee County Jail in Adrian, Mich., pending appearance Monday before a U.S. magistrate in Toledo, Ohio, at which time agents will recommend that a $1 million surety bond be posted.

Damjanovic, born in Yugoslavia, came to the U.S. in 1957 and became a citizen in 1963. He is single and works for the Keystone Tooling Co., Warren, Mich.

Frederick C. Fehl, special agent in charge of the local FBI office, said Damjanovic's arrest followed an intensive investigation which began last March.

Exxon Chemical Co. received a letter at its Des Plaines, Ill., office stating that unless Exxon paid the $2 million, several foreign and domestic VIPs including some Supreme Court justices would be assassinated.

The letter also threatened to disrupt the national affairs of the country by planting miniature home-made detonators inside the gas tanks of cars, trucks and airplanes, Fehl added.

"The letter also instructed Exxon to run an ad in the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch if they were willing to pay the price and to give a Post Office box where they could be contacted for further instructions," Fehl said.

"A second letter was received at this Post Office box in April, 1974, and it contained extremely elaborate instructions for the payoff and collection of money, and indicated more instructions would be received by means of a telephone call at one of several specified telephone booths in Toledo at 7 p.m. CDT on Aug. 31, 1974.

Fehl said a third letter received last July indicated that the delivery date had been changed from Aug. 31 to Aug. 3, when the arrest was made.

"All letters were signed 'Federation of Angry Small Business Owners' and indicated that members of FASBO were facing near bankruptcy because of the giant company's reckless price increase," Fehl said. "And for $2 million, Exxon could spare themselves the action threatened by FASBO."

Girl Thought Dead; Life Signs Return

Winston-Salem, N.C. (UPI) — Three and one-half weeks ago 12-year-old Jolene Kennedy was pronounced dead, but showed a small sign of life just as doctors prepared to remove her kidneys and eyes for transplanting.

Sunday morning she moved her hand toward her mouth as her physician father watched.

The seventh-grader from nearby Thomasville suffered severe head injuries July 9 in an auto wreck and was pronounced dead by doctors at High Point Memorial Hospital. But she moved her hand slightly and began breathing on her own about an hour and 45 minutes later as a doctor prepared to remove her donated organs.

"She had a pretty good night," her father, Dr. Joseph B. Kennedy, a consulting physician, said Sunday.

"She has a greater response in her two arms and her right and left hands moved this morning toward her mouth in purposeful movement," he said in a telephone interview from the hospital room of his daughter, Jojan, also injured in the accident.

Jolene, a "great dancer," was still in a coma at Baptist Hospital where Kennedy has kept a vigil since the accident.

The youngster, who made the decision to donate her organs for transplanting after watching a television show on the subject, shows signs of "consciousness at various continual time spans," said Kennedy.

She has blinked her eyes in response to his questions and Saturday morning nurses found the stomach tube which has supplied her with nourishment on the floor. "We don't know how it got to the floor," he added.

She has started breathing on her own again and "I would say she . . . is probably about 5% better."

At first, Kennedy said, he thought it might have been better if Jolene died, "but I have to honestly admit that I hope she can live. I believe in time she will be returned to us."

"We don't know. These things are out of our hands completely."

Mills Contributors May Owe Gift Tax On $100,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Dallas computer executives may owe a sizeable gift tax on the $100,000 donation they gave secretly to the Wilbur Mills presidential campaign in 1972.

Both men, Milledge A. Hart III and Mervin L. Stauffer, have stated that the money was from their personal funds. They could each owe more than $4,000 in gift taxes.

They both split up their gift into installments of $3,000 or less in an apparent attempt to skirt the tax, but the committees set up by the Mills campaign do not appear to meet Internal Revenue Service standards for such cases.

Ironically, Mills is chairman of the tax-writing

House Ways and Means Committee, and is considered one of the nation's leading tax authorities.

A spokesman for Electronic Data Systems Corp., the firm headed by Hart, refused to say whether the two executives had paid the gift tax or had filed the required form.

The spokesman said the gift had been cleared in advance by the EDS counsel in Washington, who said in an interview that he understood that no tax was owed.

"All the committees were properly constituted," said the attorney, Robert Martin.

The IRS has ruled that unless the committees had different officers, all the $3,000 installments must be lumped together and counted as a single gift. All the Mills committees had the same officers.

Under this ruling, for tax purposes, Hart gave a single $51,000 donation and Stauffer gave a single $49,000 gift.

An individual generally must pay gift tax on gifts of over $3,000 in any one year. If half the gift is declared to be in the name of a spouse, the cutoff is raised to $6,000. Also, any taxpayer can give, once in his life, a total of $30,000 tax-free, or $60,000 for a couple.

The net result is that Hart and Stauffer could owe as little as nothing at all if they use up most of their own and their wives' lifetime exemption.

On the other hand, the maximum that could possibly be owed by Hart is $4,425, assuming he takes advantage of his right to use his wife's name for part of the gift.

The most that Stauffer could owe is $4,095, given the same assumption.

The IRS ruling in question was issued July 17, 1972, less than four months after Hart and Stauffer made their secret donation on March 30. An IRS spokesman refused to give an opinion on whether Hart and Stauffer owed taxes. But he said the ruling applied retroactively to the period in which the gift was given.

U.S. Agencies Pose Threat, Says Percy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said Sunday the proliferation of federal police, investigative and intelligence units "threatens the basic liberties of Americans."

He disclosed that he has asked the General Accounting Office to determine the precise number and funding of government investigative units.

"Federal government units that do police, investigative and intelligence work are proliferating," Percy said. "We find ourselves threatened by the spectre of a 'watchdog' government breeding a nation of snoopers."

In a statement issued by his office, Percy said the exact budget and number of employees of these agencies are unknown. The report from the GAO, Congress' investigating agency, will provide the basis for hearings by the Senate Government Operations Committee, of which Percy is the ranking Republican member.

The Library of Congress prepared a list of more than 60 federal agencies in September, 1973, which do police, investigative or intelligence work. They ranged from the Central Intelligence Agency, whose budget Congress conceals in the appropriations for other agencies, to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service of the Agriculture Department.

Percy said that last April 9 he received a report from the Library of Congress showing the cost of 14 law enforcement groups was over $1 billion annually. "However, the Library was not able to include those departments and federal agencies whose records are not available, even to an agent of Congress," Percy said.

Americans Being Deprived Of British Drugs — AMA

CHICAGO (AP) — Americans suffering from high blood pressure are being deprived of drugs found to be helpful in treatment of the disease in Great Britain, asserts an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The reason, the editorial says, is that the Food and Drug Administration has not approved these drugs, even though they have been found safe and effective by the British.

The editorial was written by Dr. Edward R. Freis, senior medical investigator at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Washington, D.C.

American Heart Association reports indicate that more than 25 million Americans have high blood pressure and that 60,000 die annually of the effects.

It leads to stroke, heart attacks and kidney failure and is included among cardiovascular diseases, the leading cause of death in the United States.

Freis says the British have had available in recent years three new drugs for the treatment of hypertension — bethandine, debrisquone and propranolol hydrochloride.

Leftists Bombed

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — A powerful bomb exploded in front of the headquarters of the left-wing Peronist Youth organization, wounding at least 10 persons including passers-by.

Applications for the approval of these drugs for treatment of hypertension (high blood pressure) were submitted "many years ago" to the FDA, he says.

But, he adds, the FDA disapproved debrisquone, and has not acted upon the other two for use in treatment of hypertension. The agency has said there is lack of sufficient evidence that the drugs are effective, Freis wrote.

But he adds that if the FDA accepted the scientific evidence from Europe, at least propranolol could be approved for such treatment.

"The withholding of approval of useful new drugs in the cardiovascular field has been glaringly apparent for at least ten years," Freis says.

Such negativism does not exist throughout the FDA, he says, but seems to lie with the individual reviewing officer, "who is either unable or unwilling to arrive at a fair judgment of the benefit-risk ratio of a new drug."

"This reluctance results in endless delay and procrastination."

Freis says the public must, of course, be protected from toxicity so far as this is possible, and that the effectiveness of a new drug must be proved.

But once this information is obtained, he says, the FDA should act as expeditiously as possible to approve or disapprove a new drug.

"However, the Library was not able to include those departments and federal agencies whose records are not available, even to an agent of Congress," Percy said.

Blair Woman Le Chapeau Of 8 And 40

Helen McNicholas of Blair was elected le chapeau departmental of the 8 and 40, subsidiary and honorary organization of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Elected demichapeaux for six statewide areas were Mary Tondreaux, Marie Meredith, Dollie Skinner, Julie Lambert, Bernice Bussman and Rose Dolan.

Also elected were Bonnie Ransom, l'archiviste; Laura Ross, l'aumonier; Billie Casler, la concierge; and Wilma Harrison, pouvoir nationale.

The senator quoted "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," published this summer by two former intelligence officers, as estimating the cost of intelligence units alone at more than $6.2 billion annually.

The authors of that book, Victor Marchetti and John Marks, also allege that the CIA itself does not know exactly how many people work for it, in part because of fluid relationships with agents who work under contract overseas.

"Billions are appropriated each year, but we do not know enough about which agencies spend this money and what they spend it for," Percy said.

"The bulk of this work is legitimate and necessary to the national interest," Percy said. But he said there had been duplication, waste and "shocking examples of abuse."

Percy said there was reasonable concern that disclosure of certain information in this field might threaten national security. "But we cannot allow the cloak of national security to cover up practices abusive to the civil rights of our citizens, as well as expenditures which are fiscally irresponsible," he said.

Police Discover Assault Victim's Auto In Omaha

The car of a 26-year-old Lincoln woman who was kidnapped and raped Wednesday night was found near the Old Market area of Omaha early Sunday morning.

Police Lt. Al Maxey said blood stains and hair were found in the car.

Maxey said the woman received a call at work saying her husband had been in an auto accident and was at Lincoln General Hospital.

The victim went to the hospital and returned to her car after finding her husband was not a patient and the abductor was waiting for her in the back seat.

The woman was found wandering the streets in Omaha Thursday by two girls who took her to a Catholic priest.

The woman is still shaken up by the experience and unable to give a complete account of the incident, police said.

300 Delegates To Attend NFO Convention

Approximately 300 voting delegates are expected to attend the 15th annual convention of the National Farmers Organization in Crete, August 12.

The delegates will be from the 1st and 2nd Congressional Districts in Nebraska.

Erhard Phingston, assistant to the National President of NFO, is expected to discuss the lawsuit filed against the organization.

The principal business of the convention will be the setting of goals and policies for the organization for the coming year.

The meeting will be held in the Villa Madrid convention center at Crete.

Americans Being Deprived Of British Drugs — AMA

CHICAGO (AP) — Americans suffering from high blood pressure are being deprived of drugs found to be helpful in treatment of the disease in Great Britain, asserts an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The reason, the editorial says, is that the Food and Drug Administration has not approved these drugs, even though they have been found safe and effective by the British.

The editorial was written by Dr. Edward R. Freis, senior medical investigator at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Washington, D.C.

American Heart Association reports indicate that more than 23 million Americans have high blood pressure and that 60,000 die annually of the effects.

It leads to stroke, heart attacks and kidney failure and is included among cardiovascular diseases, the leading cause of death in the United States.

Freis says the British have had available in recent years three new drugs for the treatment of hypertension — bethanidine, debrisoquine and propranolol hydrochloride.

Leftists Bombed

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — A powerful bomb exploded in front of the headquarters of the left-wing Peronist Youth organization, wounding at least 10 persons including passers-by.

Applications for the approval of these drugs for treatment of hypertension (high blood pressure) were submitted "many years ago" to the FDA, he says.

But, he adds, the FDA disapproved debrisoquine, and has not acted upon the other two for use in treatment of hypertension. The agency has said there is lack of sufficient evidence that the drugs are effective, Freis wrote.

But he adds that if the FDA accepted the scientific evidence from Europe, at least propranolol could be approved for such treatment.

"The withholding of approval of useful new drugs in the cardiovascular field has been glaringly apparent for at least ten years," Freis says.

Such negativism does not exist throughout the FDA, he says, but seems to lie with the individual reviewing officer, "who is either unable or unwilling to arrive at a fair judgment of the benefit-risk ratio of a new drug."

"This reluctance results in endless delay and procrastination."

Freis says the public must, of course, be protected from toxicity so far as this is possible, and that the effectiveness of a new drug must be proved.

But once this information is obtained, he says, the FDA should act as expeditiously as possible to approve or disapprove a new drug.

"I like the independence," said Mrs. Betty Burmeister, Avon representative, who is among hundreds in the Lincoln area involved in direct sales with companies such as Fashion Two Twenty Cosmetics, Tupperware and Celebrity Jewels. "You can pick your own hours, something you can't do if you work in a store."

"I had worked in stores and offices and found that I didn't have much left after I paid a babysitter," noted Barbara Walkinshaw, division manager of Celebrity Jewels. "Now I can plan my time around my family. Besides, the pay is better."

"I started because I wanted a part-time job. I didn't want to work full-time, because I had a little one at home," concurred a consultant for Fashion Two Twenty. "I make my bookings around my family schedule."

Through house parties, individual demonstrations or door-to-door canvassing of established territories, direct sales companies allow their representatives to work at their own pace and initiative, setting appointments at their convenience.

Depending on whether it is a group or individual session, appointments usually range from one-half to two hours. However, in most companies, the dealers are paid by commission on sales. Also, ac-ording to their sales volume and recruiting success, dealers can be promoted to managerial and director positions.

For example, "No one can buy into the distribution of Tupperware," explained Mrs. Dorothy Sciford of Ralston, Tupperware manager. "I started out as a Tupperware dealer and now my husband and I are managers."

"It's much easier working with the dealers when you have worked your way up."

"There is a great potential for advancement in Celebrity Jewels," offered Ms. Walkinshaw. "The average pay is $5 to $10 an hour and if a woman works really hard, she can make more than someone sitting in an office."

"We get a commission for what we sell," said the Fashion Two Twenty dealer. "Profit-wise, I couldn't work an 8 to 5 job and make this kind of money."

Besides the commissions and promise of advancement, most of the direct sales businesses provide free training, company cars for managers and awards and prizes — cash, televisions, luggage, fur coats. Likewise, customers who host parties often receive free prizes, based on the total amount of sales, which usually average from $100 to $150 per party or demonstration.

Not only do the dealers and managers of these companies reflect a liking for their jobs, but they also display a strong belief in their products. "The product practically sells itself," many said, giving a soft-pitch sales talk.

In addition, they express a profound enjoyment of the personal contacts they have with their customers.

"Ninety-nine percent of the people are nice — even if they're not interested, they're nice," emphasized Mrs. Burmeister. "This is one of the joys of working like this."

"Many of these people have become my friends."

"I've really enjoyed the people I have worked with," said another dealer. "The repeat business is always good."

Celebrity Jewels often has repeat customers once they have seen the jewelry, said Ms. Walkinshaw.

What type of person does it take to sell from door-to-door or to a group of strangers at a house party?

"I think that anyone who doesn't have a lot of self-confidence will need a little practice," said one dealer.

"I wasn't really outgoing, but since I've started I've really had fun," she added.

"I used to be very shy," said a representative of the Tupperware company. "But it helps bring out the best in people."

"Of course, the company is very nice. They are right there when you need them."

Court Decisions Cloud Sex Issue

Decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court and a lower district court that seem to conflict have clouded the issue of sex discrimination based on a lack of health and disability coverage of pregnancy.

The rulings, two of them by the Supreme Court, involve the same basic question — temporary job loss without pay because of pregnancy. They all grew out of different circumstances and involve different laws, and they eventually probably will be resolved by the higher court.

• In one case earlier this year, the Supreme Court ruled against two school boards that said pregnant teachers had to leave work early in pregnancy, even though they were physically able to continue teaching, and could not return to work for three months after giving birth. The 14th Amendment was involved.

• In another case, the Supreme Court ruled against women who sued the State of California under the 14th Amendment's guarantee of equal protection because disability benefits were denied pregnant women.

• Recently, U.S. District Court Judge Robert Merhige, Jr., found the General Electric Co. guilty of sex discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act.

His ruling came in a case brought by Mrs. Barbara Hall, Salem, Va., who was forced to leave work in her sixth month of pregnancy and was not allowed to return to work for two months after delivery. She got no disability benefits.

The Equal Employment Opportunities Commission joined the case.

The judge held that while pregnancy is not a "disease" as such, it still has temporary disabling effects. He rejected the company's argument that pregnancy is "voluntary," saying it was temporarily disabling and that G.E. pays its male employees for most any disability or sickness.

The case, experts point out, involved a private company, which has since appealed to a higher court.

In upsetting a three-judge district court decision in the California case, the Supreme Court said the state had the right to establish a health insurance law for benefits to public and private employees, and spell out what it covers. Normal pregnancy was excluded. The disability benefits are entirely supported by a 1% tax on employee wages.

Justice Potter Stewart, writing the majority opinion in the 6 to 3 decision, said: "There is nothing in the Constitution that requires a state to subordinate or compromise its legitimate interests solely to create a more comprehensive social insurance program than it already has."

However, the State of California during the pending appeal to the Supreme Court changed its disability benefit rules, pursuant to a state court ruling, to cover benefits for pregnancies involving medical complications, leaving only normal pregnancy uncovered.

The Equal Employment Opportunities Commission also joined in the California case as a friend of the court. Ms. Linda C. Dorian was the EEOC attorney in the California and General Electric cases.

She said the California decision was "certainly not helpful" in the over-all fight to have normal pregnancy covered by health benefit plans. However, she added that she and associates think "it is not controlling" because the State of California merely "administers" the health benefit law that covers public and private employees and, therefore, is not an employer.

"We think Title VII imposes more strict standards and we think a distinction (from the 14th Amendment) can be made under Title VII," she added.

In the other case involving the 14th Amendment's guarantee of due process of law, the Supreme Court last January struck down policies of the Cleveland, Ohio, school board and the board in Chesterfield County, Va., that required pregnant teachers to leave work, without pay, months before the birth, even though the teachers' doctors said they were able to continue teaching.

Also, the board regulations said the teachers could not return to work for three months after the birth, which the court also said was discriminatory.

In the teachers cases, the Supreme Court also overruled a lower court. The teacher cases were supported by the National Education Association.

The mandatory leave-of-absence provisions, the high court held, regardless of an individual's ability to continue working, violated the 14th Amendment.

As a result, Mrs. Jo Carol La Fleur and Mrs. Ann E. Nelson, who now lives in New Jersey, received back pay from the Cleveland School Board. The first challenge to such a board policy was filed by Mrs. Susan Cohen, a Chesterfield County, Va. teacher, in 1971. The Supreme Court combined the cases.

BBB Warns—Be Sure You Know The Facts

"Better Business Bureaus (BBB) do not endorse any product, service or concern and no concern is permitted to indicate otherwise in its advertising and selling," states a pamphlet, "Don't Fall For These Gimmicks," issued by the association.

And that is good advice to remember, noted Lois Tefft, manager of the BBB of Lincoln.

"Any door-to-door salesman who says his company is registered with or endorsed by the BBB is not telling the truth," she emphasized. "We don't endorse anyone."

Although not all salesmen and companies are out to defraud the public, it is wise to use caution when dealing with these people and be sure that you know the facts.

In an effort to help consumers protect themselves from sales "gimmicks" and unreliable companies, Ms. Tefft offered a few suggestions:

"First do not open your door to a stranger," she said. "And always ask to see identification."

"A legitimate salesman will not object to this at all. In fact, he will be glad to show them to you."

Ms. Tefft also advised consumers to read a contract before signing it.

"If you don't understand it, then ask someone to explain it to you before you sign it," Ms. Tefft continued. "Also, it is a good idea to pay by check to the company, not the salesman. This is particularly true for magazine salesman."

"And remember, any offer is only as good as the company is. Take time to find out about the company."

Ms. Tefft advised that persons uncertain of the soliciting company should contact the BBB.

"We'll give them a performance report on the company," she explained.

She also warned against bending under salesman pressure tactics, such as the "opportunity of a lifetime" or similar approaches.

"If a salesman pressures you, ask him to leave," she said. "Anyone who uses these tactics is not an ethical salesman."

"An ethical salesman would not object to coming out again."

The BBB requests those suspicious of a particular salesman or those who have had a bad experience with a company to report the incident to a local BBB office, along with adequate identification of the company and the salesperson.

His Passion Is 'Bugging' Her

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to know if there is anything in insecticide that could excite a man.

Arthur is 55 — just the age most men start to slow down, but he's still going strong. He gets especially aroused right after he sprays our property for bugs.

I noticed it last year when we moved into this house. We had ants and roaches, and right after Arthur sprayed he started looking for me. He would get so passionate that he didn't care if I did my housework or even cook. Last year was bad enough, but this year it's worse. On weekends he sprays sometimes two and three times a day. It's really getting me down.

We live in Florida. What brand of bug bomb will kill the bugs down here without bringing out my husband's manhood so strong?

He uses Raid, TNT and Rid-a-bug, and they all have the same effect on him. The brands that don't affect him don't have any effect on the bugs either. Please help me.

TIRED
DEAR TIRED: My chemical experts know of nothing in any brand of insecticide that will rejuvenate the waning desire of man. If there were, we'd have a lot more dead bugs, livelier husbands and tired wives.

DEAR ABBY: These are the facts: Married 35 years to a charming, talented, beautiful and loving wife. She is generous and kind to animals, but she has one fault which drives me up a wall.

She has an uncontrollable urge to do the driving from the passenger side of the front seat. Her blue eyes are focused sharply on the road even before we pull away from the curb. "Watch that man coming toward us! You're going too fast! You're going too slow! He's trying to pass us! Don't change lanes now! There's a stop sign ahead!"

I have been wanting to take a drive up to Tahoe, down to Carmel, or to some of the other lovely places in this area, but I don't think I could tolerate a copilot.

I've thought of adhesive tape and blinders, but I just couldn't. I love her too much. Any suggestions?

SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR SAN: Driving from the passenger seat is done impulsively and reflexively. You can't change her, and she can't help it. Take a train, plane or a bus, but don't drive.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married recently. After the invitations went out, an out-of-town cousin wrote and asked if I would make an overnight motel reservation for her husband, herself and their two children, as they were coming in for the wedding.

I made the reservation gladly. The day following the wedding, when these relatives were checking out, I had a phone call from the motel manager. He said these people told him to send their bill to ME! I was shocked, but not knowing what else to say, I said, "Yes. Send it, and I will take care of it."

The bill showed lots of extra charges for room service and long distance phone calls.

Abby, are the bride's parents expected to pick up the motel tab for out-of-town guests? Or was I had?

STILL FUMING

DEAR STILL: You were had. If the bride's (or groom's) parents can afford it, they sometimes pick up the tab for out-of-towners. It's a lovely, gracious gesture, but never expected.

DEAR ABBY: To "Short in Lubbock" — the bank teller who wound up $1000 short: I feel sorry for you, but I once tried to tell a bank teller that I thought she gave me too much, and she said in a very sarcastic tone, "We (meaning the bank) do not make mistakes!"

So I took the money home and when I counted it again, sure enough, I had ten dollars too much. So I gave it to the Shrine Hospital in the bank's name.

kind to animals, but she has one fault which drives me up a wall. She has an uncontrollable urge to do the driving from the passenger side of the front seat.

Her blue eyes are focused sharply on the road even before we pull away from the curb. "Watch that man coming toward us! You're going too fast! You're going too slow! He's trying to pass us! Don't change lanes now! There's a stop sign ahead!"

I have been wanting to take a drive up to Tahoe, down to Carmel, or to some of the other lovely places in this area, but I don't think I could tolerate a copilot.

I've thought of adhesive tape and blinders, but I just couldn't. I love her too much. Any suggestions?

SAN FRANCISCAN
DEAR SAN: Driving from the passenger seat is done impulsively and reflexively. You can't change her, and she can't help it. Take a train, plane or a bus, but don't drive.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married recently. After the invitations went out, an out-of-town cousin wrote and asked if I would make an overnight motel reservation for her husband, herself and their two children, as they were coming in for the wedding.

I made the reservation gladly. The day following the wedding, when these relatives were checking out, I had a phone call from the motel manager. He said these people told him to send their bill to ME! I was shocked, but not knowing what else to say, I said, "Yes. Send it, and I will take care of it."

The bill showed lots of extra charges for room service and long distance phone calls.

Abby, are the bride's parents expected to pick up the motel tab for out-of-town guests? Or was I had?

STILL FUMING
DEAR STILL: You were had. If the bride's (or groom's) parents can afford it, they sometimes pick up the tab for out-of-towners. It's a lovely, gracious gesture, but never expected.

DEAR ABBY: To "Short in Lubbock" — the bank teller who wound up $1000 short: I feel sorry for you, but I once tried to tell a bank teller that I thought she gave me too much, and she said in a very sarcastic tone, "We (meaning the bank) do not make mistakes!"

So I took the money home and when I counted it again, sure enough, I had ten dollars too much. So I gave it to the Shrine Hospital in the bank's name.

Actress Seeks Damage Losses For Agreement

Santa Monica, Calif. (UPI)—Entertainer Mitzi Gaynor and her husband, John R. Bean, have filed a suit seeking $24 million from Akai America, Ltd., in connection with an endorsement of a "home entertainment center."

The suit, filed in Superior Court, charged the firm failed to produce $18,000 worth of stereo equipment in return for Miss Gaynor's endorsement under an alleged agreement made in August, 1971.

CWA, Bell Agree Just Prior To Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unions representing some 750,000 workers reached tentative agreement with the Bell System Sunday night on a new 3-year contract costing more than $3 billion.

The accord came less than two hours before a planned nationwide strike. It covers some 500,000 members of the Communication Workers of America, 150,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and 100,000 others represented by an alliance of independent unions. Announcement of the pact was made by CWA President Glenn E. Watts and Rex Reed, Bell's vice president for industrial relations.

Watts said that local issues must be resolved before the tentative settlement is submitted to the union membership for ratification.

Local Deadline

A deadline of midnight, Aug. 11 was set for reaching agreements on local contracts.

Even as the agreement was announced some workers had begun picketing, including in Springfield and Dayton, Ohio, Omaha, Neb., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Watts estimated that the contract will provide increases in wages and benefits totaling 35.8% over three years at a cost to the Bell System of more than $3 billion.

In addition, the union chief said the proposed settlement calls for full protection of wages against increases in the cost-of-living, the largest improvement ever made in pension, a company-paid dental plan and more than $100 million in local money for resolving what he called inequities in job classifications.

'Substantial Improvement'

A major stumbling block in the negotiations had been the issue of union security and Watts said the new contract offered substantial improvement.

Full details of the offer were withheld pending completion of negotiations on local contracts, he said.

The union had threatened to strike the Bell System coast-to-coast at 12:01 a.m. EDT Monday.

Strike Supported

Watts said company negotiators had moved "significantly and substantially" since the union rejected the company's first offer and won overwhelming membership support for a strike.

"We are gratified that representatives of the Bell System took seriously our intention to strike if a fair and equitable settlement at the national level could not be reached," Watts told newsmen.

The tentative settlement came after chief federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr. entered the talks Sunday morning. Throughout the day Usery had shuttled between meetings of company and union bargainers.

Jury Convicts Kidnap Of Editor

Atlanta, Ga. (AP)—A federal jury on Sunday night convicted William A. H. Williams of extortion in connection with the kidnaping of Atlanta Constitution Editor Reg Murphy.

The 34-year-old Williams, who pleaded insanity as a defense, stared glumly ahead as the verdict was announced. The jury deliberated about four hours.

Judge William O'Kelley said he would sentence Williams Aug. 30. The maximum penalty he could receive is 50 years in prison.

Williams' wife, Betty, 26, a petite brunette who sat in the front row of the courtroom as a spectator, faces charges of concealing knowledge of a crime in connection with the kidnaping and will be tried Feb. 19.

The judge announced her trial date after the verdict. She displayed no emotion.

In his charge to the jury, the judge said the legal definition of an insane person is one who lacks the substantial capacity to either understand the wrongfulness of his conduct or to confirm his conduct to the requirements of the law.

Williams was convicted on three charges. They were extortion of money from a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, use of a firearm during the commission of a felonious act stemming from the ransom payment of $700,000 by Cox Enterprises, which owns the Constitution, and depositing in the U.S. mails a demand for extortion money.

Murphy was released unharmed 48 hours after his abduction last February.

The $700,000 was recovered from the Williams' home by FBI agents who took the license number of the car of the man who picked up the suitcases of cash.

Two psychiatrists and one psychologist offered contradictory testimony regarding the mental state of Williams at the time of the abduction.

Throughout the seven-day trial, Williams has displayed a wide range of emotions.

When he testified about a troubled childhood and severe beatings from his father, his voice became almost inaudible and he wept.

At other times, when the building subcontractor from Lilburn, Ga. delivered a lurid and detailed account of the abduction of Murphy, he seemed composed and alert and often laughed.

He said he "arrested" Murphy in the name of the American Revolutionary Army when the editor declined to publish information Williams claimed to have about American congressmen and senators who had "lied, cheated and swindled."

Unique System Irrigates NU Test Plots

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"It has been a real challenge to keep it wet," says Henry Kroese, an agricultural research technician working with corn research plots at the University of Nebraska Department of Agronomy.

Kroese has developed a unique system of irrigation for the research plots used to compare the newly developed lines of corn at the University.

Each tiny plot of land must be so close to exactly the same as the others in the field as possible, so that the differences in corn production will be due to genetic differences in the corn itself, rather than due to differences in soil type, fertilizer, water use or weed control.

Kroese was an auto and implement dealer before working at the University. He had to sell his business due to health problems but he is now a dedicated researcher and clearly loves his job.

Research Important

"I learned just how important corn and crop research is when I was in business. If those farmers aren't making money then the people on the main streets of our towns and cities are not making money either," he said.

The irrigation system Kroese developed by trial and error pumps water out of Stevens Creek and from an irrigation well on the bank of the creek.

The water is then distributed down a ditch system fed by aluminum pipes equipped with gates or holes that can be opened or closed to adjust the amount of water running down a ditch in the corn row.

Kroese uses a set of buried measuring devices to determine how much moisture is getting into the various plots to make sure each tiny field is getting equal treatment.

Heat Effect Minimal

He has been so successful that the effect of heat on the plots has been minimal this year. Most farmers have indicated losses due to heat even on irrigated ground.

"I am sure that most farmers don't do as good a job of irrigating their fields as Henry does on our plots. We will see very little, if any, loss in spite of the heat," said Dr. William Compton, a university corn breeder.

Kroese draws praise from Dr. Don Hanway, chairman of the Department of Agronomy. "He can be found out here almost anytime of the day or night and on holidays. Because of his dedication and ideas we are handling these plots with less help and in a much more efficient fashion," Hanway said.

Getting good technical people to aid researchers like Dr. Compton has been a major problem for University administrators like Hanway.

Takes Training

"You just can't find such people. It takes several years to train them and get them experienced in working with a particular crop and a particular set of fields. The data we get from our own fields applies to Nebraska. We can't really rely on data from other states because their conditions are different than ours. People like Henry are really vital to Nebraska's farmers," Hanway said.

Henry's greatest concern is that the highway department might build a bypass highway right through his beloved plot area. "This uniform patch of land is vital to corn research in Nebraska. It would be a tragedy to destroy it," he said.

Compton agrees "it is the most uniform research area I know of in the United States with the exception of one at Waseca, Minn. It would take a fortune and many years of work to get anywhere close to it on another site," he said.

Despite what happens to the plots eventually, Henry Kroese is a happy man as he carefully measures out the limited water supply so each corn plant gets an equal drink and aids Dr. Compton in seeking new combinations of corn genes to withstand the rigors of Nebraska summers.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Folks who rushed about buying up flour and other dried foods such as crackers, macaroni, spaghetti, corn meal, cake mixes and cereals during the dollar - a - loaf - of - bread threat by the milling industry now find houseguests have moved into their storage bins.

Flour beetles, carpet beetles, saw-toothed grain beetles, Indian meal moths, drug store beetles and red flour beetles have all been found in cupboards by alarmed hoarders.

About all you can do is to destroy the food or eat it bugs and all. If you have the food and don't yet have bugs you can store it in screw-top containers such as fruit jars or put it in the freezer or refrigerator at zero degrees, which should keep bugs from developing.

Newly purchased foods containing insects should be returned to the store or can be turned over to the State Department of Agriculture if you are sufficiently upset.

A part of the motive seems to be to put the heat on city slickers who use farm operations as a tax shelter but anyone careless with his figures will be fingered on the farm front because of higher farm incomes this year.

Meat surpluses and resulting low prices caused one group of farmers to drive their tractors onto the runways of an airport tying up traffic for some time. The group has given away meat to the poor and has also boarded ships dumping meat into the harbor like the old Boston tea party.

The farmers claim it costs 74 pigs to buy a tractor today compared to 6 pigs in 1947.

This particular group of farmers happens to live in France but the problems they face are the same faced by American meat producers.

The closing of the European Community to U.S. meat exports has removed a $3.5 million market for our meat and its not likely to be reopened until January at the earliest.

Nebraska is fortunate to have managed to hand onto him as long as it did. Oklahoma is getting a very good dean for its college.

Government officials attending the drought meetings set up by Governor J. James Exon are becoming more grim-faced every day, and that includes the governor.

Exon knows better than most how dependent the state is on a prosperous agriculture for enough tax income to meet its bills and develop new programs.

Farmers who don't make money don't pay much income taxes and since they don't buy anything they don't pay much sales taxes during hard times.

Farmers who are trying to keep cattle are paying up to $2 per bale of hay and they are pumping water on crops at unbelievable rates.

Butler County farmers are averaging 400,000 gallons of water a minute or some 24 million gallons of water an hour just to keep their crops from drying up.

The economic importance of farmers is tremendous. Farmers pump a lot of dollars into the economy, generating taxes like mad.

The state needs farm dollars to keep its services in operation. This in itself should be an important factor in gathering statewide support for a scheme to recharge the groundwater in the Upper Blue River basin.

Unless the area has irrigation in quantity farmers will go back to dryland farming — wheat instead of corn and a lot less reliable source of tax dollars to keep the state financially sound.

Exon Questions Butz' 'Good Crop' Quote

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon said Sunday he feared Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz hasn't looked at information on drought conditions submitted by USDA personnel in the field.

Exon was asked by UPI to comment on statements made in Michigan by Butz Saturday. Butz was quoted as predicting the farmers would have their second best production year on record despite the drought and that loss estimates from the drought were too high.

"I hope that the secretary's prediction of the second biggest crop ever is accurate," Exon said. "However, the correctness of information from Secretary Butz' department hasn't been noted for its accuracy or beneficial effect for either the producer and the consumer."

Butz Agency

Exon noted that current Nebraska figures of $2.23 billion in agricultural losses this year because of the drought and declining livestock prices were compiled by one of Butz's agencies, the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"His people here — the ASCS people and the Farmers Home Administration — have been in full cooperation with myself and state agencies," Exon said. "They know well what the situation is I'm sure they have reported this to the USDA."

The Democratic governor added that he was "sure this information is available to the secretary as far as the situation in Nebraska is concerned. It is available from my office and USDA offices in the state."

"I'm afraid," Exon said, "Mr. Butz hasn't looked at it."

"I do not believe Mr. Butz has put the problem in proper perspective," Exon said, "even if his current predictions are accurate. Certainly, in Nebraska and other breadbasket states, the total crop is going to be far short of predictions because of the worst drought since the 1930s."

In addition, Butz was quoted in Michigan as saying, "Some people panic too early."

To this, Exon replied, "There is no panic in the Midlands. Rather there is a realistic assessment of conditions."

"This certainly is not the time," Exon said, "when farmers have never had it so good" as the administration said this spring.

Exon noted that Nebraska was the first state to ask the USDA for statewide agriculture relief, about 10 days ago, but said, "We haven't heard anything back on our request."

Hail Damage Request

"Nor have we even received official word from the disaster request we made over a month ago for three counties which received extensive hail damage," Exon said. "I hope the USDA isn't dragging its feet over this matter that is very important to Nebraska agriculture."

Exon said spot checks in

Nebraska fields indicate the situation is "growing worse" every day. He said, "The only thing we can bank on to save anything at this time is widespread rains across the state."

"If it rained every day between now and Oct. 1, we would still have at least a 75% loss in dryland corn," Exon said. "Certainly, extensive rains would greatly benefit sorghum and bean crops, but even with that, we know the yields would be down considerably below expectations."

Exon said the domestic and foreign demands for U.S. wheat and feed grains was "unparalleled from a protein starved world."

"For example," Exon said, "if the requirement for a bushel of grain was adequate last year, and the need is for a bushel and a half this year, the production of even a bushel and a quarter falls far short of demand."

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The long-term aspects of worldwide crop production problems make it quite clear that farmers can forget their fears of low grain prices this fall and probably for the 1975 crop year as well.

Higher oil prices appear to have reduced fuel consumption somewhat because there are reports of tankers becoming available to haul grain and other commodity products at the lowest rates in several months.

The worldwide meat glut extends to such unlikely places as Taiwan, Japan and England, all of which have been major meat importers.

Russia is continuing purchases of feed grains, which seems to indicate that efforts to expand its livestock production are not being abandoned.

The major problems all farmers face everywhere is inflation, which is driving up the price of every product, machine and service a farmer uses. Crop prices must remain high to pay the cost of producing food.

Near-Record Crowd Visits 13th Annual Czech Festival

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Wilber — It took a good ear to hear them, but a few superlatives came through above the beat of the polka bands here Sunday.

Such words as biggest, best and especially coolest. The latter applied to both the 78-degree temperature and, in the jargon of modern youth, to the over-all pleasantry of the 13th annual Nebraska Czech Festival.

Struggling to maintain reserve while bubbling with enthusiasm, hardwareman Fred Shimonek pronounced this year's crowd "very close to a record." That would be in the neighborhood, explained the president of the sponsoring Nebraska Czechs of Wilber, of 20,000 persons Saturday and maybe 30,000 Sunday.

"There's really no way of telling for sure, but I know the parade route was well over a mile and was packed with people all the way," continued Shimonek. "It's pretty wonderful to see when you were expecting to be cooked out with weather like we'd been having."

By mid-afternoon several booths had sold out of kolaches, forcing many visitors to substitute "pivo" in the jam-packed taverns. There was a steady line for four hours waiting for duck-and-dumplings in the basement of the Czech Museum alone.

A 90-minute parade fulfilled the promise of being even longer and livelier than its predecessor. Joe Vosoba, associated with the celebration since its 1962 inception, labeled the parade "the best in Nebraska."

Rousing cheers of "Nazdar!" echoed along the route as polka bands and Czech singing groups tried to outdo one another. Numerous Shrine groups were interspersed between the battalions of clowns, queens and politicians.

Debbie Slezak of the South Omaha Sokols, crowned Saturday night as Nebraska Czech Queen, headed a list of royalty which was almost a parade in itself. Wilber's own Luann Tichy was first runner-up among the six Czech queen contestants.

Accorded a place of honor in the parade as well as in the program following was Admiral George J. Dufek, recipient of the annual King Charles Award. The first American to set foot on the geographic South Pole, he was presented the tribute as a Czech descendant who has distinguished himself internationally.

Delegations from Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City were among the visitors, many of them first-timers to the ethnic event. Five families who gathered for a reunion demonstrated how the crowd continues to hold through the years.

Mrs. Donald Shaw of Maquoketa, Iowa, explained that her family was camping in Iowa and learned of the celebration from other travelers. A few quick phone calls produced a gathering of the Beniseck clan from Maquoketa and Davenport, Iowa, and from Boulder, Fort Collins and La Fayette, Colo.

Although there were many varieties of fun as always, the cultural side of the festival showed best in two events which have become traditional. A dozen Czech communities were represented among some 200 participants — many of school age — in an All-Nebraska Czech Spectacular.

Dr. Vladimir Kucera of the Nebraska State Historical Society and Bernard Klasek, Saline county school superintendent, directed the event.

Hearing Set For A&P Fraud Suit

The State Department of Agriculture has ordered representatives of an Omaha grocery store to appear at a hearing Thursday on charges the store sold consumers underweight meat packages.

The hearing involves an A&P store at 71st and Ames in Omaha and will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the department hearing room.

Bill Abel, department attorney, said the 71st and Ames A&P has been found selling meat packages which weighed less than the label indicated on four occasions in the last three months.

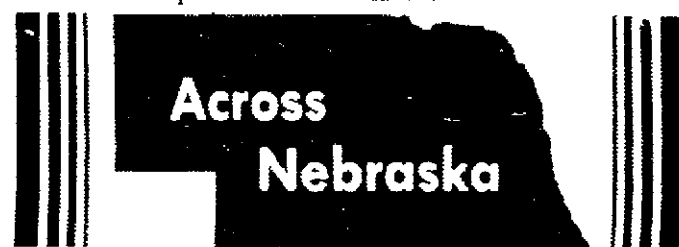

Data from earlier inspections was presented to the Douglas County attorney's consumer fraud division and resulted in a lawsuit being filed.

Abel said the latest violations were found subsequent to the court action.

He said another hearing on the latest violations is being held because the court case "has bogged down."

Relief Promised

Washington (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted to require relief for American industries whose competitive positions are damaged by imports.

Fire Hall Proposed For Stromsburg

Stromsburg — Voters in this Polk County community will go to the polls Tuesday, Aug. 13, to decide on a proposed $75,000 bond issue for a new fire hall. Plans call for the concrete block with brick veneer building to house a city fire truck, two rural fire trucks, grassfire jeep, and the city's ambulance; a police office; and a meeting room.

Burwell Butter Factory Closing

Burwell — Announcement has been made of the closing on Aug. 17 of one of Burwell's oldest businesses, the Burwell Butter Factory, Inc. Manager S. V. Holloway explained the action is the result of not enough cream being available. At the present time the plant employs three workers in addition to the manager and makes 4,000 pounds of butter weekly. The factory has operated continuously since it was organized in 1916.

Sheep Breeders Re-Elect Waldo

Willard Waldo of DeWitt was renamed head of the Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders during their annual meeting here. Re-elected for two-year terms as members of the board of directors were Harry Hart of Cozad for the central district, and John Hodges of Julian for the southeast district. Other board members include Earl Christensen of Fremont and Warren Roe of Superior. Ted Doane, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension sheep specialist, will continue as secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Shelton Coed Receives $500 Grant

University of Nebraska-Lincoln junior Stephanie Suzanne Schepers has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Ralston Purina Co. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Schepers of Shelton and is majoring in food science and technology.

New Liberty Bridge Planned

Beatrice — Members of the Gage County Board of Supervisors voted to construct a $102,120 bridge to replace a usable but narrow bridge west of Liberty. The span will require $21,000 in county funds and $119,000 in state and federal funds.

Mann Chosen Auburn Police Chief

Auburn — Gary Mann, 32, has been appointed chief of the Auburn Police Department, succeeding Jerold McCue. Mann, a member of the Auburn Police Department since last January, is a native of San Diego, Calif., but lived in the Des Moines, Iowa, area most of his life before coming to Auburn.

"It has been a real challenge to keep it wet," says Henry Kroese, an agricultural research technician working with corn research plots at the University of Nebraska Department of Agronomy.

Kroese has developed a unique system of irrigation for the research plots used to compare the newly developed lines of corn at the University.

Each tiny plot of land must be as close to exactly the same as the others in the field as possible, so that the differences in corn production will be due to genetic differences in the corn itself, rather than due to differences in soil type, fertilizer, water use or weed control.

Kroese was an auto and implement dealer before working at the University. He had to sell his business due to health problems but he is now a dedicated researcher and clearly loves his job.

Research Important

"I learned just how important corn and crop research is when I was in business. If those farmers aren't making money then the people on the main streets of our towns and cities are not making money either," he said.

The irrigation system Kroese developed by trial and error pumps water out of Stevens Creek and from an irrigation well on the bank of the creek.

The water is then distributed down a ditch system fed by aluminum pipes equipped with gates or holes that can be opened or closed to adjust the amount of water running down a ditch in the corn row.

Kroese uses a set of buried measuring devices to determine how much moisture is getting into the various plots to make sure each tiny field is getting equal treatment.

Heat Effect Minimal

He has been so successful that the effect of heat on the plots has been minimal this year. Most farmers have indicated losses due to heat even on irrigated ground.

"I am sure that most farmers don't do as good a job of irrigating their fields as Henry does on our plots. We will see very little, if any, loss in spite of the heat," said Dr. William Compton, a university corn breeder.

Kroese draws praise from Dr. Don Hanway, chairman of the Department of Agronomy. "He can be found out here almost anytime of the day or night and on holidays. Because of his dedication and ideas we are handling these plots with less help and in a much more efficient fashion," Hanway said.

Getting good technical people to aid researchers like Dr. Compton has been a major problem for University administrators like Hanway.

Takes Training

"You just can't find such people. It takes several years to train them and get them experienced in working with a particular crop and a particular set of fields. The data we get from our own fields applies to Nebraska. We can't really rely on data from other states because their conditions are different than ours. People like Henry are really vital to Nebraska's farmers," Hanway said.

Henry's greatest concern is that the highway department might build a bypass highway right through his beloved plot area. "This uniform patch of land is vital to corn research in Nebraska. It would be a tragedy to destroy it," he said.

Compton agrees "it is the most uniform research area I know of in the United States with the exception of one at Waseca, Minn. It would take a fortune and many years of work to get anywhere close to it on another site," he said.

Despite what happens to the plots eventually, Henry Kroese is a happy man as he carefully measures out the limited water supply so each corn plant gets an equal drink and aids Dr. Compton in seeking new combinations of corn genes to withstand the rigors of Nebraska summers.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Folks who rushed about buying up flour and other dried foods such as crackers, macaroni, spaghetti, corn meal, cake mixes and cereals during the dollar - a - loaf - of - bread threat by the milling industry now find houseguests have moved into their storage bins.

Flour beetles, carpet beetles, saw-toothed grain beetles, Indian meal moths, drug store beetles and red flour beetles have all been found in cupboards by alarmed hoarders.

About all you can do is to destroy the food or eat it bugs and all. If you have the food and don't yet have bugs you can store it in screw-top containers such as fruit jars or put it in the freezer or refrigerator at zero degrees, which should keep bugs from developing.

Newly purchased foods containing insects should be returned to the store or can be turned over to the State Department of Agriculture if you are sufficiently upset.

The 1974 census of agriculture will be using a new minimum definition for a farm. If you don't take in $1,000 you won't be counted.

The old definition was 10 acres or minimum income of $50 or a smaller acreage with $250 as minimum income.

All this may be more realistic in terms of describing what a farm really is, but it will also juggle figures, leading to assumptions about farm income improvement that won't stand much sunlight.

The Internal Revenue Service is taking a closer computer-aided

look at farmers' tax returns this year.

A part of the motive seems to be to put the heat on city slickers who use farm operations as a tax shelter but anyone careless with his figures will be fingered on the farm front because of higher farm incomes this year.

Meat surpluses and resulting low prices caused one group of farmers to drive their tractors onto the runways of an airport tying up traffic for some time. The group has given away meat to the poor and has also boarded ships dumping meat into the harbor like the old Boston tea party.

The farmers claim it costs 74 pigs to buy a tractor today compared to 6 pigs in 1947.

This particular group of farmers happens to live in France but the problems they face are the same faced by American meat producers.

The closing of the European Community to U.S. meat exports has removed a $3.5 million market for our meat and its not likely to be reopened until January at the earliest.

It was delightful to see Dr. Frank Baker get the top agricultural college job at Oklahoma State but sad to see him leave Nebraska.

Baker is a man who worked well with youth and adults at the same time, gaining the respect and admiration of both.

As a diplomat he is unsurpassed by anyone with the possible exception of Henry Kissinger.

One fond memory of Baker is when he was dressed as a clown at the annual Block and Bridle cattle show, entertaining the students along with other animal scientists.

Nebraska is fortunate to have managed to hand onto him as long as it did. Oklahoma is getting a very good dean for its college.

Government officials attending the drought meetings set up by Governor J. James Exon are becoming more grim-faced every day, and that includes the governor.

Exon knows better than most how dependent the state is on a prosperous agriculture for enough tax income to meet its bills and develop new programs.

Farmers who don't make money don't pay much income taxes and since they don't buy anything they don't pay much sales taxes during hard times.

Farmers who are trying to keep cattle are paying up to $2 per bale of hay and they are pumping water on crops at unbelievable rates.

Butler County farmers are averaging 400,000 gallons of water a minute or some 24 million gallons of water an hour just to keep their crops from drying up.

The economic importance of farmers is tremendous. Farmers pump a lot of dollars into the economy, generating taxes like mad.

The state needs farm dollars to keep its services in operation. This in itself should be an important factor in gathering statewide support for a scheme to recharge the groundwater in the Upper Blue River basin.

Unless the area has irrigation in quantity farmers will go back to dryland farming — wheat instead of corn and a lot less reliable source of tax dollars to keep the state financially sound.

Exon Questions Butz' 'Good Crop' Quote

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon said Sunday he feared Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz hasn't looked at information on drought conditions submitted by USDA personnel in the field.

Exon was asked by UPI to comment on statements made in Michigan by Butz Saturday. Butz was quoted as predicting the farmers would have their second best production year on record despite the drought and that loss estimates from the drought were too high.

"I hope that the secretary's prediction of the second biggest crop ever is accurate," Exon said. "However, the correctness of information from Secretary Butz' department hasn't been

Butz Agency

Exon noted that current Nebraska figures of $2.23 billion in agricultural losses this year because of the drought and declining livestock prices were compiled by one of Butz's agencies, the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"His people here — the ASCS people and the Farmers Home Administration — have been in full cooperation with myself and state agencies," Exon said. "They know well what the situation is. I'm sure they have reported this to the USDA."

The Democratic governor added that he was "sure this information is available to the secretary as far as the situation in Nebraska is concerned. It is available from my office and USDA offices in the state."

"I'm afraid," Exon said, "Mr. Butz hasn't looked at it."

"I do not believe Mr. Butz has put the problem in proper perspective," Exon said, "even if his current predictions are accurate. Certainly, in Nebraska and other breadbasket states, the total crop is going to be far short of predictions because of the worst drought since the 1930s."

In addition, Butz was quoted in Michigan as saying, "Some people panic too early."

To this, Exon replied, "There is no panic in the Midlands. Rather there is a realistic assessment of conditions."

"This certainly is not the time," Exon said, "when farmers have never had it so good" as the administration said this spring.

Exon noted that Nebraska was the first state to ask the USDA for statewide agriculture relief, about 10 days ago, but said, "We haven't heard anything back on our request."

Hail Damage Request

"Nor have we even received official word from the disaster request we made over a month ago for three counties which received extensive hail damage," Exon said. "I hope the USDA isn't dragging its feet over this matter that is very important to Nebraska agriculture."

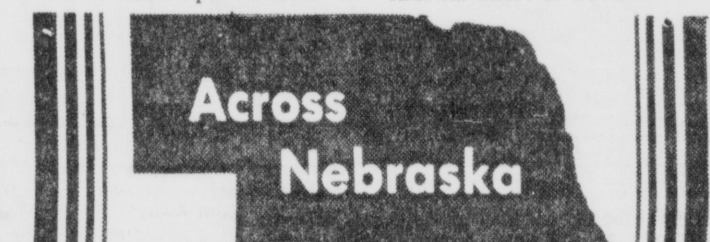

Exon said spot checks in

Nebraska fields indicate the situation is "growing worse" every day. He said, "The only thing we can bank on to save anything at this time is widespread rains across the state."

"If it rained every day between now and Oct. 1, we would still have at least a 75% loss in dryland corn," Exon said. "Certainly, extensive rains would greatly benefit sorghum and bean crops, but even with that, we know the yields would be down considerably below expectations."

Exon said the domestic and foreign demands for U.S. wheat and feed grains was "unparalleled from a protein starved world."

"For example," Exon said, "if the requirement for a bushel of grain was adequate last year, and the need is for a bushel and a half this year, the production of even a bushel and a quarter falls far short of demand."

Fire Hall Proposed For Stromsburg

Stromsburg — Voters in this Polk County community will go to the polls Tuesday, Aug. 13, to decide on a proposed $75,000 bond issue for a new fire hall. Plans call for the concrete block with brick veneer building to house a city fire truck, two rural fire trucks, grassfire jeep, and the city's ambulance; a police office; and a meeting room.

Burwell Butter Factory Closing

Burwell — Announcement has been made of the closing on Aug. 17 of one of Burwell's oldest businesses, the Burwell Butter Factory, Inc. Manager S. V. Holloway explained the action is the result of not enough cream being available. At the present time the plant employs three workers in addition to the manager and makes 4,000 pounds of butter weekly. The factory has operated continuously since it was organized in 1916.

Sheep Breeders Re-Elect Waldo

Willard Waldo of DeWitt was renamed head of the Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders during their annual meeting here. Re-elected for two-year terms as members of the board of directors were Harry Hart of Cozad for the central district, and John Hodges of Julian for the southeast district. Other board members include Earl Christensen of Fremont and Warren Roe of Superior. Ted Doane, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension sheep specialist, will continue as secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Shelton Coed Receives $500 Grant

University of Nebraska-Lincoln junior Stephanie Suzanne Schepers has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Ralston Purina Co. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Schepers of Shelton and is majoring in food science and technology.

New Liberty Bridge Planned

Beatrice — Members of the Gage County Board of Supervisors voted to construct a $102,120 bridge to replace a usable but narrow bridge west of Liberty. The span will require $21,000 in county funds and $119,000 in state and federal funds.

Mann Chosen Auburn Police Chief

Auburn — Gary Mann, 32, has been appointed chief of the Auburn Police Department, succeeding Jerold McCue. Mann, a member of the Auburn Police Department since last January, is a native of San Diego, Calif., but lived in the Des Moines, Iowa, area most of his life before coming to Auburn.

Near-Record Crowd Visits 13th Annual Czech Festival

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Wilber — It took a good ear to hear them, but a few superlatives came through above the beat of the polka bands here Sunday.

Such words as biggest, best and especially coolest. The latter applied to both the 78-degree temperature and, in the jargon of modern youth, to the over-all pleasantries of the 13th annual Nebraska Czech Festival.

Struggling to maintain reserve while bubbling with enthusiasm, hardwareman Fred Shimonek pronounced this year's crowd "very close to a record." That would be in the neighborhood, explained the president of the sponsoring Nebraska Czechs of Wilber, of 20,000 persons Saturday and maybe 30,000 Sunday.

"There's really no way of telling for sure, but I know the parade route was well over a mile and was packed with people all the way," continued Shimonek. "It's pretty wonderful to see when you were expecting to be cooked out with weather like we'd been having."

By mid-afternoon several booths had sold out of kolaches, forcing many visitors to substitute "pivo" in the jam-packed taverns. There was a steady line for four hours waiting for duck-and-dumplings in the basement of the Czech Museum alone.

A 90-minute parade fulfilled the promise of being even longer and livelier than its predecessor. Joe Vosoba, associated with the celebration since its 1962 inception, labeled the parade "the best in Nebraska."

Rousing cheers of "Nazdar!" echoed along the route as polka bands and Czech singing groups tried to outdo one another. Numerous Shrine groups were interspersed between the battalions of clowns, queens and politicians.

Debbie Slezak of the South Omaha Sokols, crowned Saturday night as Nebraska Czech Queen, headed a list of royalty which was almost a parade in itself. Wilber's own Luann Tichy was first runnerup among the six Czech queen contestants.

Accorded a place of honor in the parade as well as in the program following was Admiral George J. Dufek, recipient of the annual King Charles Award. The first American to set foot on the geographic South Pole, he was presented the tribute as a Czech descendant who has distinguished himself internationally.

Delegations from Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City were among the visitors, many of them first-timers to the ethnic event. Five families who gathered for a reunion demonstrated how the crowd continues to hold through the years.

Mrs. Donald Shaw of Maquoketa, Iowa, explained that her family was camping in Iowa and learned of the celebration from other travelers. A few quick phone calls produced a gathering of the Benischek clan from Maquoketa and Davenport, Iowa, and from Boulder, Fort Collins and La Fayette, Colo.

Although there were many varieties of fun as always, the cultural side of the festival showed best in two events which have become traditional. A dozen Czech communities were represented among some 200 participants — many of school age — in an All-Nebraska Czech Spectacular.

Dr. Vladimir Kucera of the Nebraska State Historical Society and Bernard Klasek, Saline county school superintendent, directed the event.

Hearing Set For A&P Fraud Suit

The State Department of Agriculture has ordered representatives of an Omaha grocery store to appear at a hearing Thursday on charges the store sold consumers underweight meat packages.

The hearing involves an A&P store at 71st and Ames in Omaha and will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the department hearing room.

Bill Abel, department attorney, said the 71st and Ames A&P has been found selling meat packages which weighed less than the label indicated on four occasions in the last three months.

Data from earlier inspections was presented to the Douglas County attorney's consumer fraud division and resulted in a lawsuit being filed.

Abel said the latest violations were found subsequent to the court action.

He said another hearing on the latest violations is being held because the court case "has bogged down."

Relief Promised

Washington (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted to require relief for American industries whose competitive positions are damaged by imports.

School Officials Charged With Fire Code Violations

Omaha (AP) — Warrants have been issued charging three Omaha school authorities with violations of the city fire code.

The warrants were issued by the city prosecutor's office at the request of the Omaha Fire Prevention Bureau.

It was thought to be the first time such action has been taken against school authorities in Omaha.

Chief Deputy City Prosecutor

Richard Dunning said the three warrants were part of a "head-on collision" between the Omaha Fire Department and authorities in the Omaha Public Schools, the University of Nebraska at Omaha and possibly other local school systems.

Anderson Honored

Dunning said the warrants issued deal with alleged fire hazards at Burke High School, Horace Mann Junior High and UNO's Administration Building. Dunning said it was likely that more warrants would be issued in connection with violations at other schools. The maximum penalty for the charges is a $100 fine or 90 days in jail.

The fire department asked the prosecutor's office to intervene because some school officials "were not cooperating" in correcting fire code violations, he said.

The violations cited, he said, could be corrected, "without a great expenditure of money."

Fire Prevention Chief Robert Warsoski said the schools named

Owners Hope Major Defection Will Bolster Failing Box Office

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiations don't resume until Tuesday but Monday could be a pivotal day in determining how much longer the NFL players' strike will last.

The owners, who suffered a financial blow over the weekend when the fans stayed home in droves during the first full weekend of exhibition games, will be watching carefully how many veterans are going to come into camp.

According to the owners' figures, 310 players, including 87 starters, had crossed the picket lines before the weekend.

But many of the veterans seem to be getting restless—although the regular season is still six weeks away—and the owners are hoping the trickle of returning veterans will turn into a deluge on Monday.

In Washington, the executive committee of the Players Association, with representatives from most of the teams, convened for a Sunday meeting. No major strategic decisions were expected, but Ed Garvey, executive director of the association, was expected to brief the group on the strike situation and the outlook for negotiations.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, a player who doesn't have to worry about losing his job, crossed the line Sunday.

The number of veterans who follow in his footsteps on Monday may determine the tone of the bargaining on Tuesday.

If there is a major defection, the owners could decide the players are near the point of collapse and continue their hard-line position.

But if the players remain fairly solid on the picket lines, the owners—noticing the lost revenue at the exhibition games—may decide to offer some concessions.

The Cowboys released a terse statement from Staubach after he crossed the picket lines.

"This has been a very tough decision but after weighing at length all aspects of the strike—such as teammates, player demands, fan reaction, player and owner negotiating strategy, crossing the picket line, etc.—I have decided to report to training camp Sunday.

"This is an individual decision on my part, with no intent to influence others. Therefore, I have no further comment."

Staubach, in his sixth year with the Cowboys, led the NFL in passing statistics last season. Craig Morton, the Cowboys' No. 2 quarterback, had already reported but since he's jumping to the WFL, Staubach seemed assured of his No. 1 position.

Another Cowboy veteran, Cornell Green, reported to the Dallas camp on Saturday.

The veterans on several teams held meetings Sunday to discuss their feelings on continuing the strike.

The owners and the players will resume their talks in Washington Tuesday with Federal Mediator W.J. Usery Jr.

The players were encouraged by the slight turnouts at the seven exhibition games on Saturday. At Champaign, Ill., where 10 Bear veterans, six Cardinal veterans and four St. Louis wives picketed the St. Louis-Chicago game, only 12,877 fans showed up at the 71,000-seat stadium.

"We feel the low attendance at the game demonstrates our point," Mac Percival, the Bears' player rep said. Jim Hart, the Cardinal QB, said, "Even if we didn't show up today, our point would have been made."

The biggest crowd of the night was in New Orleans, where 45,339 fans watched the Saints lose to Pittsburgh—but it was still the smallest crowd ever to see a Saints' game at home.

Only 12,831 rattled around in the Astrodome to see the Houston Oilers beat the New York Giants although 41,049—the second biggest crowd—showed up in Oakland.

Besides picketing in Champaign, the players also picketed in Oakland, Denver and San Diego. In Denver, there were more than 50 picketing veterans including the entire Denver team from a year ago.

The other crowd totals were 27,559 in Denver, 32,339 in Cincinnati, and 18,087 in San Diego.

The exhibition weekend wound up with Sunday's Atlanta-Philadelphia game.

Then both sides will watch closely how many veterans return Monday before they return to the bargaining table on Tuesday.

Golf Victory To Regalado

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Vic Regalado, two-time Mexican Master winner and 1973 Mexican Open winner, came from four strokes back Sunday with four birdies on the final eight holes to edge Tom Weiskopf by one stroke and win the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Open.

Regalado won his first American tournament by dropping a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole after Weiskopf had already birdied the hole from two feet to force an apparent playoff.

Regalado finished with his second straight 69 for a four-round total of six-under-par 278. Weiskopf, who had a one-over-par 72, finished one stroke back while Dave Hill, eight under par through three rounds, and the tournament leader after 54 holes, skied to a 75 finish two strokes off the pace at 280.

Jim Wiechers finished in fourth place for the second straight year, shooting 76 for 282. Lee Elder, Dale Douglass and charging Bobby Nichols—with a final round 69—were one stroke under par at 281.

Weiskopf, starting the day two strokes back of Hill, double bogeyed the second hole and bogeyed the 10th and 11th. But he birdied the 17th and 18th to tighten the race.

Regalado, 26, a native of Tijuana, Mexico, quadrupled his 1973 tour earnings of $9,512 by taking the $40,000 first prize.

In addition he won $5,000 last year in seven tournaments in Mexico.

Regalado had bogeys on the second and fourth holes for a front nine of 48 to remain four strokes back of Hill. Hill bogeyed his first two holes before getting his only bird of the round on the fourth, but he bogeyed the 10th and 11th to drop to four under for the tournament and could muster no more than seven straight pars the rest of the way.

The only other golfer to equal par 284 was Jerry Heard, a first round co-leader. Heard finished with 72s the final two days for a 284 total.

Low round of the day was a 68 by Bruce Crampton, golf's fifth leading career money winner. The 38-year-old Australian, who has nearly $1.2 million in earnings, finished at 286, two strokes over par.

"I was really nervous and really lucky," said the serious-faced Regalado. "I had a weak stomach. When I saw I was tied for the lead coming onto the 15th green, my legs started to shake."

"I said, well, I've got to do my best." He sturded himself enough to curl in a 20-foot birdie from the lower level to the upper part of the green.

The happy Regalado said he will change his travel plans now that he has won the Pleasant Valley Classic. "Before I won I was ready to go home. Now, because I have an invitation, I'll go to Winston Salem to play in the PGA next week."

Winning a major tournament presents an automatic invitation to the PGA.

Total attendance for the tournament was 128,245 over four days, bringing attendance at eight Pleasant Valley Country Club tournaments to more than one million persons.

White Sox Win Two; Oakland, Twins Split

By United Press International
Jorge Orta drove in five runs with four hits to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 13-10 triumph over the Texas Rangers and a doubleheader sweep Sunday after Bart Johnson pitched a nine-hitter in the 6-3 opening game victory.

Orta, who collected a single, a pair of doubles and a homer in the second contest, also had the key hit in the seventh inning of the opener to help the Sox break a 3-3 tie.

Texas reliever Steve Foucault had the dubious honor of losing both games. In the nightcap, he gave up a two-run homer to Bill Melton in the bottom of the sixth inning which climaxed a four-run rally that gave the Sox an 11-8 advantage. For Melton, it was his 18th homer on the season, and made him the all-time White Sox home run leader with 136, breaking the record held by Minnie Minoso.

Texas starter Steve Hargan gave up seven runs and 12 hits before being lifted in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Texas slugger Jeff Burroughs drove in four runs with a pair of homers, his 20th and 21st of the year, and a single. The 22-year-old right-fielder batted in 10 runs in the series to give him 90 for the season, tops in the major leagues.

In the opener, Johnson won his fourth straight game since being recalled from the White Sox Iowa farm club July 5.

The Sox broke a 3-3 tie after two were out in the bottom of the seventh. Bill Sharp singled and raced to third on Orta's double to right. Dick Allen grounded to Toby Harrah, who fumbled the ball allowing Sharp to score. Melton also grounded to Harrah, and once again the Ranger shortstop fumbled the ball, allowing Orta to score. Allen earlier had hit his 29th homer of the season.

In other games, Boston downed New York 7-3 in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader before rain washed out the second contest, Oakland split a twin bill with Minnesota, copping the first 10-4 before losing 2-1. Baltimore and Detroit split a doubleheader, the Tigers mauling the Orioles 6-1 in the opener. But the Birds bouncing back to muzzle the Tigers 9-3 in the nightcap, Cleveland and Milwaukee divided a pair, the Indians edging the Brewers 4-3 in the first game and the Brewers sudsing the Indians 8-3 in the second, and Kansas City dumped California twice, 10-4 and 3-0.

Luis Tiant scattered 10 hits and Rico Petrocelli and Bernie Carbo each knocked in two runs to lead the Red Sox to a win over the Yankees. Tiant won his 17th game, the highest total in the Majors.

Bill Butler limited Oakland to six hits in gaining a victory and giving Minnesota a split of their doubleheader. The A's won the first game before 34,145 fans, the largest crowd of the season at Metropolitan Stadium.

Jim Holt's two out single in the sixth inning scored Eric Soderholm from second base and provided Butler with his winning margin.

Oakland broke open the first game by scoring six times before anyone was out in the seventh inning. Run-scoring singles by Claudell Washington and Bando, a two-run triple by Reggie Jackson and a two-run homer by Joe Rudi, his 11th, highlighted the Oakland explosion.

Brooks Robinson, playing for the first time in a week, drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single in the second game to lead the Orioles to a victory after Joe Coleman's two-hitter paced the Detroit Tigers to a win in the opener.

Dick Sharon's first homer this year, a two-run blow in the third inning of the opener helped finish Oriole starter and loser Mike Cuellar, now 13-8.

Al Kaline tied Willie Keeler for 14th place on the all-time hit list with his only hit of the doubleheader, a single leading off the fifth inning of the first game and is now only 45 away from the 3,000th hit of his career.

Ken Berry drove in three runs with two hits and Don Money added a two-run homer as the Brewers shelled Gaylord Perry to beat the Indians in the second game. Cleveland won the first game on John Lowenstein's seventh inning single.

It was the fifth straight loss for Perry, who hasn't won since July 3. Perry, who has now tried six times for his 16th victory, is now 13-6 after posting a 15-1 mark when he won 15 straight.

Aamco Pitching Still Sparkles

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Hastings — If Lincoln Aamco's pitching was suspect entering the State Class A Junior Legion Baseball Tournament, it shouldn't be anymore.

The Capital City club, sometimes maligned for having good hitting and mediocre pitching, received another stellar hurling effort here Sunday to stay alive in the double elimination tournament at Duncan Field.

in a 1-0 opening-round Aamco loss to Millard.

Grand Island joined Wakefield on the sidelines Sunday after absorbing an 11-1 shelling from North Platte. Millard and Omaha Roberts are the only unbeaten teams remaining in the tourney after Millard dumped the Omaha South Eagles, 7-1, and Omaha Roberts hit host Hastings, 9-4, in the Sunday night session.

"Our pitchers have given us more than I can ask," remarked Aamco coach Bill Fagler, calling the one run yielded in 17 innings of state tournament play "beyond everyone's expectations."

Since Fagler admits Aamco lacks

pitching depth, "it's up to me now to get the most out of what pitching we have left. We've hit the ball well both games. We just need more runs. We haven't committed any errors."

"It's a matter of survival now," he added. "If we can score five or six runs and our pitching continues to hold up, we can stay in there tough."

Fagler was undecided about his pitching strategy for the remainder of the tournament. But he indicated that "I might come back Monday with Berka. He says his arm feels good and he still has four innings to throw."

"I might even use Mahlman again tomorrow," offered Fagler. "Or Scott Votava could come in and throw some. And I'm still thinking about starting John Ingram. There's a lot of possibilities. My job is to use them to our advantage and stay in this thing."

Against Wakefield, Aamco's bats checked early in an effort to avoid being the first team eliminated in the tournament.

Aamco's first four batters in the first inning hit safely with Scott Votava's rbi double down the left field line the key blow.

Two Aamco runners, however, were thrown out in the first frame and "what we could have parlayed into a five or six-run inning turned out to be only two," noted Fagler.

Tom Hertzell's single, driving home Chuck Baggis in the fourth, gave Aamco a 2-0 lead. The Capital City club then put the game out of reach in the eighth with three more tallies.

Greg Smith delivered the first run with a single and Hertzell was credited with knocking home the other two when Wakefield's center fielder dropped a routine fly ball with two outs and the bases loaded.

Wakefield, last year's state Class B Junior Legion champion, opted to compete in the Class A ranks this year, qualifying for that status by virtue of drawing talent from neighboring communities.

Mahlman raised his individual pitching record to 8-1 as Aamco increased its season mark to 20-9. Wakefield finished with a 33-13 record.

San Diego Tops Reds In Extra Innings, 1-0

United Press International

Fred Kendall's sacrifice fly in the 14th inning drove in Nate Colbert with the only run of the game as the San Diego Padres nudged Cincinnati 1-0 in the nightcap Sunday after the Reds won the opener 7-2 to hand Dick Baney his first win of the year.

Dave Freisleben blanked the Reds on eight hits in 13 innings in a magnificent performance before rookie Rusty Gerhardt came on to pitch the 14th and get the win. Clay Kirby went nine innings, Clay Carroll went two more before Borbon came on in the 12th to take the loss.

The loss dropped the Reds 6 1/2 games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, pace-setters in the National League West.

In the first game, Baney picked up the win, his first decision of the year, in relief of starter Fred Norman who departed with one out in the fifth and the Reds trailing, 2-1.

Cincinnati collected six doubles in the contest, three of them in the sixth inning. One of them was a pop fly by Tony Perez that fell behind first baseman Nate Colbert and broke a 2-2 tie. It drove in Joe Morgan who had tied the score with a run-scoring double earlier in the inning.

In other games, Chicago won 4-3 before bowing 7-1 to Pittsburgh. Los Angeles nipped Houston 2-1. Philadelphia won 6-1 before St. Louis rebounded to take an 11-0 win in the finale and Atlanta split a twinbill with San Francisco, win-

OPPERMAN GETS EIGHTH

Mount Pocono, Pa. (AP) — Beaver Crossing's Jan Opperman finished eighth here Sunday in the Puroiator 500-mile stock car race, which was won by Richard Petty.

Petty earned $14,800 for driving his Dodge across the finish first with Opperman picking up $1,850 driving a Chevrolet and completing 188 of the 192 laps.

Rodolfo Calderon moved into a slight lead in the jockey standings after the third week of horse racing at the State Fairgrounds.

R. E. Lee, however, maintained his comfortable lead in the trainers' standings after the first days of this year's 26-day meeting.

Calderon's nearest contender, of course, is perennial Lincoln riding champion Fred Ecoffey, who has ridden the most winners (19) of the top 10 leaders. But Calderon has a significant edge in seconds, 23-15 and an 11-9 cushion in shows.

Although not in the battle for the top two spots, Ken Jones holds a 13-point lead over Wayne Anderson for third-place honors. Jones showed the biggest advancement from last week's charts, rising from fifth to third.

The remainder of the top 10 chart includes Ed Werre, John Rettele, Jim Cuddie, Jim Bazer, Mike Phelps and Justo Moreno.

In the trainers' list, Lee seems destined to again regain the Lincoln training title he lost last season to Larry Starosick.

He holds a 14-point edge over Ken Kirby, 65-51.

Starosick is third, only six points behind Kirby for runnerup honors. The remainder of the top 10 in-

Bruce Kison hurled a five-hitter before a blister on his pitching hand forced his removal in the eighth inning and Dave Parker blasted a three-run homer to spark the Pirates to a nightcap win over the Cubs.

Andy Thornton's two-run homer in the fifth inning lifted the Cubs to a win in the opener.

Davey Lopes stole a career-high four bases and Jim Wynn singled in Bill Russell in the fifth inning to give the Dodgers their seventh straight victory, a win over the Astros.

Lou Brock singled twice, scored twice and stole three bases as the Cardinals won the nightcap after Mike Schmidt's two homers gave the Phils a win in the opener.

Brock also stole a base in the first game giving him a total of four for the day and 72 for the season. While Brock put on the show in the nightcap, it was all Schmidt in the opener. Schmidt first home run came with two out in the first inning and was his 24th this season, tying him for the league-lead with Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles. Schmidt took the lead in the seventh when his homer scored Dave Cash, who had singled.

Left-hander Mike Caldwell and Elias Sosa combined on a four-hitter to give the Giants a victory in the second game and a split of a doubleheader with the Atlanta Braves.

The Braves won the opener on a two-run ninth inning homer by Dusty Baker.

But the Birds bouncing back to muzzle the Tigers 9-3 in the nightcap, Cleveland and Milwaukee divided a pair, the Indians edging the Brewers 4-3 in the first game and the Brewers sudsing the Indians 8-3 in the second, and Kansas City dumped California twice, 10-4 and 3-0.

Luis Tiant scattered 10 hits and Rico Petrocelli and Bernie Carbo each knocked in two runs to lead the Red Sox to a win over the Yankees. Tiant won his 17th game, the highest total in the Majors.

Bill Butler limited Oakland to six hits in gaining a victory and giving Minnesota a split of their doubleheader. The A's won the first game before 34,145 fans, the largest crowd of the season at Metropolitan Stadium.

Jim Holt's two out single in the sixth inning scored Eric Soderholm from second base and provided Butler with his winning margin.

Oakland broke open the first game by scoring six times before anyone was out in the seventh inning. Run-scoring singles by Claudell Washington and Bando, a two-run triple by Reggie Jackson and a two-run homer by Joe Rudi, his 11th, highlighted the Oakland explosion.

Brooks Robinson, playing for the first time in a week, drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single in the second game to lead the Orioles to a victory after Joe Coleman's two-hitter paced the Detroit Tigers to a win in the opener.

Dick Sharon's first homer this year, a two-run blow in the third inning of the opener helped finish Oriole starter and loser Mike Cuellar, now 13-8.

Al Kaline tied Willie Keeler for 14th place on the all-time hit list with his only hit of the doubleheader, a single leading off the fifth inning of the first game and is now only 45 away from the 3,000th hit of his career.

Ken Berry drove in three runs with two hits and Don Money added a two-run homer as the Brewers shelled Gaylord Perry to beat the Indians in the second game. Cleveland won the first game on John Lowenstein's seventh inning single.

It was the fifth straight loss for Perry, who hasn't won since July 3. Perry, who has now tried six times for his 16th victory, is now 15-6 after posting a 15-1 mark when he won 15 straight.

Aamco Pitching Still Sparkles

By RANDY YORK

Hastings — If Lincoln Aamco's pitching was suspect entering the State Class A Junior Legion Baseball Tournament, it shouldn't be anymore.

The Capital City club, sometimes maligned for having good hitting and mediocre pitching, received another stellar hurling effort here Sunday to stay alive in the double elimination tournament at Duncan Field.

Dale Mahlman checked Wakefield on five hits to eliminate the Northeast Nebraska team, 6-0. The mound effort followed Reg Berka's solid performance in a 1-0 opening-round Aamco loss to Millard.

Grand Island joined Wakefield on the sidelines Sunday after absorbing an 11-1 shelling from North Platte. Millard and Omaha Roberts are the only unbeaten teams remaining in the tourney after Millard dumped the Omaha South Eagles, 7-1, and Omaha Roberts hit host Hastings, 9-4, in the Sunday night session.

"Our pitchers have given us more than I can ask," remarked Aamco coach Bill Fagler, calling the one run yielded in 17 innings of state tournament play "beyond everyone's expectations."

Since Fagler admits Aamco lacks

pitching depth, "it's up to me now to get the most out of what pitching we have left. We've hit the ball well both games. We just need more runs. We haven't committed any errors."

"It's a matter of survival now," he added. "If we can score five or six runs and our pitching continues to hold up, we can stay in there tough."

Fagler was undecided about his pitching strategy for the remainder of the tournament. But he indicated that "I might come back Monday with Berka. He says his arm feels good and he still has four innings to throw."

"I might even use Mahlman again tomorrow," offered Fagler. "Or Scott Votava could come in and throw some. And I'm still thinking about starting John Ingram. There's a lot of possibilities. My job is to use them to our advantage and stay in this thing."

Against Wakefield, Aamco's bats clicked early in an effort to avoid being the first team eliminated in the tournament.

Aamco's first four batters in the first inning hit safely with Scott Votava's rbi double down the left field line the key blow.

Two Aamco runners, however, were thrown out in the first frame and "what we could have parlayed into a five or six-run inning turned out to be only two," noted Fagler.

Tom Hertzell's single, driving home Chuck Biggs in the fourth, gave Aamco a 3-0 lead. The Capital City club then put the game out of reach in the eighth with three more tallies.

Greg Smith delivered the first run with a single and Hertzell was credited with knocking home the other two when Wakefield's center fielder dropped a routine fly ball with two outs and the bases loaded.

Wakefield, last year's state Class B Junior Legion champion, opted to compete in the Class A ranks this year, qualifying for that status by virtue of drawing talent from neighboring communities.

Mahlman raised his individual pitching record to 8-1 as Aamco increased its season mark to 20-9. Wakefield finished with a 33-13 record.

OPPERMAN GETS EIGHTH

Mount Pocono, Pa. (AP) — Beaver Crossing's Jan Opperman finished eighth here Sunday in the Puroator 500-mile stock car race, which was won by Richard Petty.

Petty earned $14,800 for driving his Dodge across the finish first with Opperman picking up $1,850 driving a Chevrolet and completing 188 of the 192 laps.

Calderon Leading Jockey Standings

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer

Rodolfo Calderon moved into a slight lead in the jockey standings after the third week of horse racing at the State Fairgrounds.

R. E. Lee, however, maintained his comfortable lead in the trainers' standings after the first days of this year's 26-day meeting.

Calderon's nearest contender, of course, is perennial Lincoln riding champion Fred Ecoffey, who has ridden the most winners (19) of the top 10 leaders. But Calderon has a significant edge in seconds, 23-15 and an 11-9 cushion in shows.

Although not in the battle for the top two spots, Ken Jones holds a 13-point lead over Wayne Anderson for third-place honors. Jones showed the biggest advancement from last week's charts, rising from fifth to third.

The remainder of the top 10 chart includes Ed Werre, John Rettele, Jim Cuddie, Jim Bazer, Mike Phelps and Justo Moreno.

In the trainers' list, Lee seems destined to again regain the Lincoln training title he lost last season to Larry Starosick.

He holds a 14-point edge over Ken Kirby, 65-51.

Starosick is third, only six points behind Kirby for runnerup honors.

The remainder of the top 10 includes J. D. Taylor, O. D. Kemling, Gary Kelly, Jerry Kirby, Fred Psota, Herb Riecken and R. D. Ring.

Post time for weekday cards during the last two weeks of this year's season will be moved to 4:30 p.m. Saturday post times remain at 2 p.m.

This week's action is highlighted by the Nebraska State Fair Futurity on Wednesday. The event, with a $5,000-added purse, will be limited to Nebraska-bred 2-year-olds over 6 furlongs.

The Lincoln Derby for 3-year-olds will be run Saturday over one mile for a $5,000-added purse.

The top 10 lists based on five points for a win, three points for a second and one for a show:

NFL Exhibition Season's Attendance Down From Last Year

By Associated Press

It all depends on your point of view.

You could say — optimistically, if you're a National Football League club owner — that 268,569 fans turned out over the weekend to watch exhibition games.

Or you could say — optimistically, if you're a striking member of the NFL Players Association — that about 263,000 didn't.

And that empty-seat count doesn't even include Sunday night's game in Philadelphia between the Atlanta Falcons and the Eagles or Monday night's game at Kansas City between the Detroit Lions and the Chiefs.

The Players Association experienced both success and failure in its avowed goal of slowing down the turnstiles at exhibition games.

The NFLPA succeeded in knocking out the July 26 game between the Miami Dolphins and the College All-Stars but failed to dent the attendance at the Canton, Ohio, Hall of Fame Game between St. Louis and Buffalo the next day.

Meanwhile, the NFL Players Association executive committee met in Washington, D.C., Sunday to decide the union's future course in the 36-day-old strike.

Some games in the first full preseason weekend drew well. New Orleans attracted 45,329 fans Saturday night to watch the Saints get belted 26-7 by Pittsburgh. That figure, though, still was about 20,000 under last year's average exhibition game attendance.

And Oakland had 41,049 fans on hand Saturday night to see the Raiders beat Dallas 27-7, a crowd about 11,000 below last year's preseason sellout figure.

But other teams played before what might better be termed intimate gatherings.

Illinois Memorial Stadium, a 71,000-seat structure in Champaign, Ill., had 12,877 occupied seats when St. Louis beat the Chicago Bears 10-7 Saturday.

Officials estimated that, had there been no strike, the game would have drawn close to 40,000 fans.

Houston had 15,501 fans in the Astrodome Saturday night to see the Oilers surprise the New York Giants 18-7. A year ago, the Oilers' opener drew 45,775.

And in Washington Friday night, 16,403 spectators — the fewest ever to see a pro football game in 14-year-old, 54,374-seat

RFK Stadium — watched New England beat the Redskins 21-16.

Even where the crowds were "large," they were small relative to a year ago.

Los Angeles, for example, which drew a 1973 turnout of 74,461 for its annual preseason opener against Cleveland, had an announced crowd of 28,021 Friday night in the Rams' 24-21 victory.

And in Buffalo Friday night, where Green Bay beat the Bills 16-13, 30,119 fans attended. A year ago, 80,020-seat Rich Stadium was sold out for the Bills' exhibition opener.

Refunds were rampant everywhere, from two or three thousand at some parks to the 24,800 tickets turned in at Buffalo.

Refunds were provided, according to NFL policy because of the strike, for those fans wishing to return tickets without jeopardizing their season-ticket holdings.

That policy was instituted for this first full exhibition weekend, including Monday night's game in Kansas City. The league has not said yet whether that policy would be continued for next week.

In Saturday night's other games: Cincinnati beat Miami 19-

13 before 32,821 fans, the first time the Bengals have dropped below 50,000 since moving to Riverfront Stadium four years ago;

—The New York Jets dumped Denver 41-19, with 27,559 fans in Mile High Stadium this time, compared to the Broncos' average 1973 preseason attendance of 40,000;

—And San Diego, which had about 35,000 at last year's first exhibition game, defeated San Francisco 20-6 before 18,870.

Play appeared to be generally ragged, as was to be expected with only a sprinkling of veterans in action and rookies and free agents — most of whom would be gone by now under normal circumstances — carrying much of the load.

But there were exceptions. In Cincinnati, Ken Polke, Miami's unheralded rookie quarterback, showed flashes of brilliance in defeat.

The free agent from the University of Dayton completed only six of 18 passes, but two of them went to rookie Nate Moore for touchdowns covering 73 and 67 yards.

And quarterback John Jones, a walk-on candidate from Fisk University, passed 33 and 12 yards to veteran David Knight for touchdowns in the Jets' victory over Denver.

TIME OUT

By Steve Gillispie
Star Sports Writer

Pre-Season Game In Package

The Kansas City-Omaha Kings have apparently taken a hint from the NFL and offered their season tickets in a package that includes a pre-season game.

The Kings are only scheduled to play 11 regular season games in Omaha's Civic Auditorium this year, compared to 15 games the first year the two-city franchise in Kansas City and Omaha started and 14 last year.

The Kings are also playing Atlanta Hawks Oct. 10 in Omaha in a pre-season game and their season ticket package includes that game.

This year, as in the first two years, no NBA team will appear in Omaha more than once. That point has its advantages and disadvantages.

If the team is a contender (five teams that made the playoffs last year will play in Omaha this year), there will probably be a capacity crowd. However, teams that have no "big name" players or are not title contenders will draw quite a few less than a Lincoln high school game in town will get.

The five playoff teams that will appear in Omaha are the world champion Boston Celtics, Chicago Bulls, Detroit Pistons, Washington Bullets and Milwaukee Bucks. The latest NBA entry, the New Orleans Jazz, will be in Omaha Nov. 5.

Team Work Stressed

Teams that won't appear in Omaha are the Buffalo Braves, Portland Trailblazers, Los Angeles Lakers, Golden State Warriors and New York Knicks.

How the Kings will fare as a team this year will probably depend upon much further the players develop under Coach Phil Johnson, who emphasizes teamwork more than previous coach Bob Cousy did.

If Nate Archibald and Sam Lacey stay healthy, the Kings' chances for improvement should be even better. Although many observers wonder out loud how Archibald and Jimmy Walker will work together at guard.

It's well known that Walker likes to shoot often and doesn't pass off a lot. How he plays with Archibald, who also shoots a lot but will pass off, has been ask.

Walker was obtained last year after Archibald was injured, so the two will start together for the first time this year.

Center, which has been termed as a key position to being a contender in the NBA, has long been a problem for the Kings.

Lacey has done a good job at center at times, but even Kings officials admit that Lacey's biggest problem is inconsistency and they hope that will be solved by the signing of 7-0 rookie Len Kosmalski of Tennessee.

NFL Exhibition Season's Attendance Down From Last Year

By Associated Press

It all depends on your point of view. You could say — optimistically, if you're a National Football League club owner — that 268,569 fans turned out over the weekend to watch exhibition games.

Or you could say — optimistically, if you're a striking member of the NFL Players Association — that about 263,000 didn't.

And that empty-seat count doesn't even include Sunday night's game in Philadelphia between the Atlanta Falcons and the Eagles or Monday night's game at Kansas City between the Detroit Lions and the Chiefs.

The Players Association experienced both success and failure in its avowed goal of slowing down the turnstiles at exhibition games.

The NFLPA succeeded in knocking out the July 26 game between the Miami Dolphins and the College All-Stars but failed to dent the attendance at the Canton, Ohio, Hall of Fame Game between St. Louis and Buffalo the next day.

Meanwhile, the NFL Players Association executive committee met in Washington, D.C., Sunday to decide the union's future course in the 36-day-old strike.

Some games in the first full preseason weekend drew well. New Orleans attracted 45,329 fans Saturday night to watch the Saints get belted 26-7 by Pittsburgh. That figure, though, still was about 20,000 under last year's average exhibition game attendance.

And Oakland had 41,049 fans on hand Saturday night to see the Raiders beat Dallas 27-7, a crowd about 11,000 below last year's preseason sellout figure.

But other teams played before what might better be termed intimate gatherings.

Illinois Memorial Stadium, a 71,000-seat structure in Champaign, Ill., had 12,877 occupied seats when St. Louis beat the Chicago Bears 10-7 Saturday.

Officials estimated that, had there been no strike, the game would have drawn close to 40,000 fans.

Houston had 15,501 fans in the Astrodome Saturday night to see the Oilers surprise the New York Giants 16-7. A year ago, the Oilers' opener drew 45,775.

And in Washington Friday night, 16,403 spectators — the fewest ever to see a pro football game in 14-year-old, 54,374-seat

RFK Stadium — watched New England beat the Redskins 21-16.

Even where the crowds were "large," they were small relative to a year ago.

Los Angeles, for example, which drew a 1973 turnout of 74,461 for its annual preseason opener against Cleveland, had an announced crowd of 28,021 Friday night in the Rams' 24-21 victory.

And in Buffalo Friday night, where Green Bay beat the Bills 16-13, 30,119 fans attended. A year ago, 80,020-seat Rich Stadium was sold out for the Bills' exhibition opener.

Refunds were rampant everywhere, from two or three thousand at some parks to the 24,800 tickets turned in at Buffalo.

Refunds were provided, according to NFL policy because of the strike, for those fans wishing to return tickets without jeopardizing their season-ticket holdings.

That policy was instituted for this first full exhibition weekend, including Monday night's game in Kansas City. The league has not said yet whether that policy would be continued for next week.

In Saturday night's other games: Cincinnati beat Miami 19-

13 before 32,821 fans, the first time the Bengals have dropped below 50,000 since moving to Riverfront Stadium four years ago;

—The New York Jets dumped Denver 41-19, with 27,559 fans in Mile High Stadium this time, compared to the Broncos' average 1973 preseason attendance of 40,000;

—And San Diego, which had about 35,000 at last year's first exhibition game, defeated San Francisco 20-6 before 18,870.

Play appeared to be generally ragged, as was to be expected with only a sprinkling of veterans in action and rookies and free agents — most of whom would be gone by now under normal circumstances — carrying much of the load.

But there were exceptions. In Cincinnati, Ken Polke, Miami's unheralded rookie quarterback, showed flashes of brilliance in defeat.

The free agent from the University of Dayton completed only six of 18 passes, but two of them went to rookie Nate Moore for touchdowns covering 73 and 67 yards.

And quarterback John Jones, a walk-on candidate from Fisk University, passed 33 and 12 yards to veteran David Knight for touchdowns in the Jets' victory over Denver.

Pre-Season Game In Package

The Kansas City-Omaha Kings have apparently taken a hint from the NFL and offered their season tickets in a package that includes a pre-season game.

The Kings are only scheduled to play 11 regular season games in Omaha's Civic Auditorium this year, compared to 15 games the first year the two-city franchise in Kansas City and Omaha started and 14 last year.

The Kings are also playing Atlanta Hawks Oct. 10 in Omaha in a pre-season game and their season ticket package includes that game.

This year, as in the first two years, no NBA team will appear in Omaha more than once. That point has its advantages and disadvantages.

If the team is a contender (five teams that made the playoffs last year will play in Omaha this year), there will probably be a capacity crowd. However, teams that have no "big name" players or are not title contenders will draw quite a few less than a Lincoln high school game in town will get.

The five playoff teams that will appear in Omaha are the world champion Boston Celtics, Chicago Bulls, Detroit Pistons, Washington Bullets and Milwaukee Bucks. The latest NBA entry, the New Orleans Jazz, will be in Omaha Nov. 5.

Team Work Stressed

Teams that won't appear in Omaha are the Buffalo Braves, Portland Trailblazers, Los Angeles Lakers, Golden State Warriors and New York Knicks.

How the Kings will fare as a team this year will probably depend upon much further the players develop under Coach Phil Johnson, who emphasizes teamwork more than previous coach Bob Cousy did.

If Nate Archibald and Sam Lacey stay healthy, the Kings' chances for improvement should be even better. Although many observers wonder out loud how Archibald and Jimmy Walker will work together at guard.

It's well known that Walker likes to shoot often and doesn't pass off a lot. How he plays with Archibald, who also shoots a lot but will pass off, has been ask.

Walker was obtained last year after Archibald was injured, so the two will start together for the first time this year.

Center, which has been termed as a key position to being a contender in the NBA, has long been a problem for the Kings.

Lacey has done a good job at center at times, but even Kings officials admit that Lacey's biggest problem is inconsistency and they hope that will be solved by the signing of 7-0 rookie Len Kosmalski of Tennessee.

Tucker Triumphs In Main Event

By BOB MOYER

It was Kent Tucker's kind of night Sunday at Midwest Speedway as the Aurora driver raced to his third super stock main event win of the season.

"It was a completely different kind of track because it had a lot more moisture," said Tucker. "It was more tacky so that you got better traction."

Tucker, who uses a 454-Chevy "hog" block engine, made good use of the excellent track condition, recording a season best time of 1:16.96 seconds around the one-third mile oval.

Tucker, who last week was forced out of the main event when his fan belt broke, had to weather two restarts after taking the lead on the 11th lap from Roger Klone of York and was never seriously challenged.

The only driver who made any move at Tucker was Joe Wade, Wade, returning to Midwest after a two-week, enforced layoff caused by a damaged car, made a late bid but the effort hurt his car and he had to settle for sixth place at the finish line.

"We changed the suspension before the races began because of the change in the track condition," said Tucker. "And then we changed it again after the heat race." Tucker finished second in his heat.

The alteration must have worked because Tucker then won the trophy dash and the main event.

The main event suffered through three restarts in the early going. "It (the restarts) bothers you a little," noted Tucker. "I was afraid for a while I was never going to get through the pack."

In other races Sunday night, Bruce Price took the lead on the first lap and was never headed in the super stock B feature while in the hobby main event Terry Nickle emerged the victor in a wild-and-wooly affair.

The hobby race suffered from six restarts and had four leaders in the first five laps before Nickles gained the lead on the fifth lap.

It was not an easy win for him however as Sam Briscoe, who never led the race, pushed Nickles all the way and was only a car length behind at the finish.

The next racing in Lincoln will be Tuesday night when a top field of cars will be on hand for the sprint car championships at Midwest Speedway.

Deckert Wins

KMTV Tourney

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Ken Deckert of Omaha finished with an even par 72 to take a one-stroke victory Sunday in the 11th Annual KMTV Men's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Dragster Kills Two In Illinois

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill (UPI)—A dragracing car hurtled into the bleachers at St. Louis International Raceway Sunday, killing at least 20 spectators and injuring about 30 others.

The driver, 30-year-old professional drag racer Bill Bagshaw of Long Beach, Calif., was hospitalized in serious condition, apparently with a broken collarbone.

Two spectators were pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis. About 10 other injured persons also were taken to St. Mary's and about 20 persons were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Granite City.

Identities of the victims were not released immediately.

Witnesses to the crash said Bagshaw's Dodge apparently blew its engine a few hundred feet from the finish line of the quarter-mile drag strip and spilled oil over the track.

"His car swerved out of control on the slippery surface, spun around and flipped over the guardrail into the stands," said

Dragster Kills Two In Illinois

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill (UPI)—A dragracing car hurtled into the bleachers at St. Louis International Raceway Sunday, killing at least 20 spectators and injuring about 30 others.

The driver, 30-year-old professional drag racer Bill Bagshaw of Long Beach, Calif., was hospitalized in serious condition, apparently with a broken collarbone.

Two spectators were pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis. About 10 other injured persons also were taken to St. Mary's and about 20 persons were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Granite City.

Identities of the victims were not released immediately.

Witnesses to the crash said Bagshaw's Dodge apparently blew its engine a few hundred feet from the finish line of the quarter-mile drag strip and spilled oil over the track.

"His car swerved out of control on the slippery surface, spun around and flipped over the guardrail into the stands," said

Two Die In Highway Mishaps

By The Associated Press
Accidents late Saturday and early Sunday claimed two more lives on Nebraska highways, according to State Patrol reports.

David R. Gonzales, 24, of McCook, was killed early Sunday in a two vehicle accident about two miles west of McCook on Highways 6-34.

The patrol said his eastbound car left the road, struck a guard rail, swerved back into the road and was in collision with a car driven by Arthur Hovey, 54, of Trenton.

Mark Reiger, 5, of Gresham was killed Saturday night in an accident involving a propane gas

Woman Killed By Train

Alliance (AP) — An Alliance woman, identified as Beatrice Valdez Villa, was killed instantly shortly before midnight Saturday when she was struck by a Burlington Northern freight train.

The death was being investigated Sunday by Box Butte County Sheriff Don Underwood and Everett Cole of the railroad.

The engineer of the train was Ray Ridenour of Ravenna, and the conductor, Glen Regester of Alliance, said the woman was observed standing on the tracks and did not attempt to move until shortly before she was hit.

Dylan, Columbia Sign New Contract

Los Angeles (AP) — Singer-composer Bob Dylan has signed a long-term recording contract with Columbia Records, renewing contract ties with the CBS recording firm which sold millions of Dylan's early records.

CBS records president Irwin

Sagelstein announced that the contract agreement had been reached Saturday after two days of negotiations with the 33-year-old singer-songwriter.
